Hard are the ways of truth, and rough to walk.

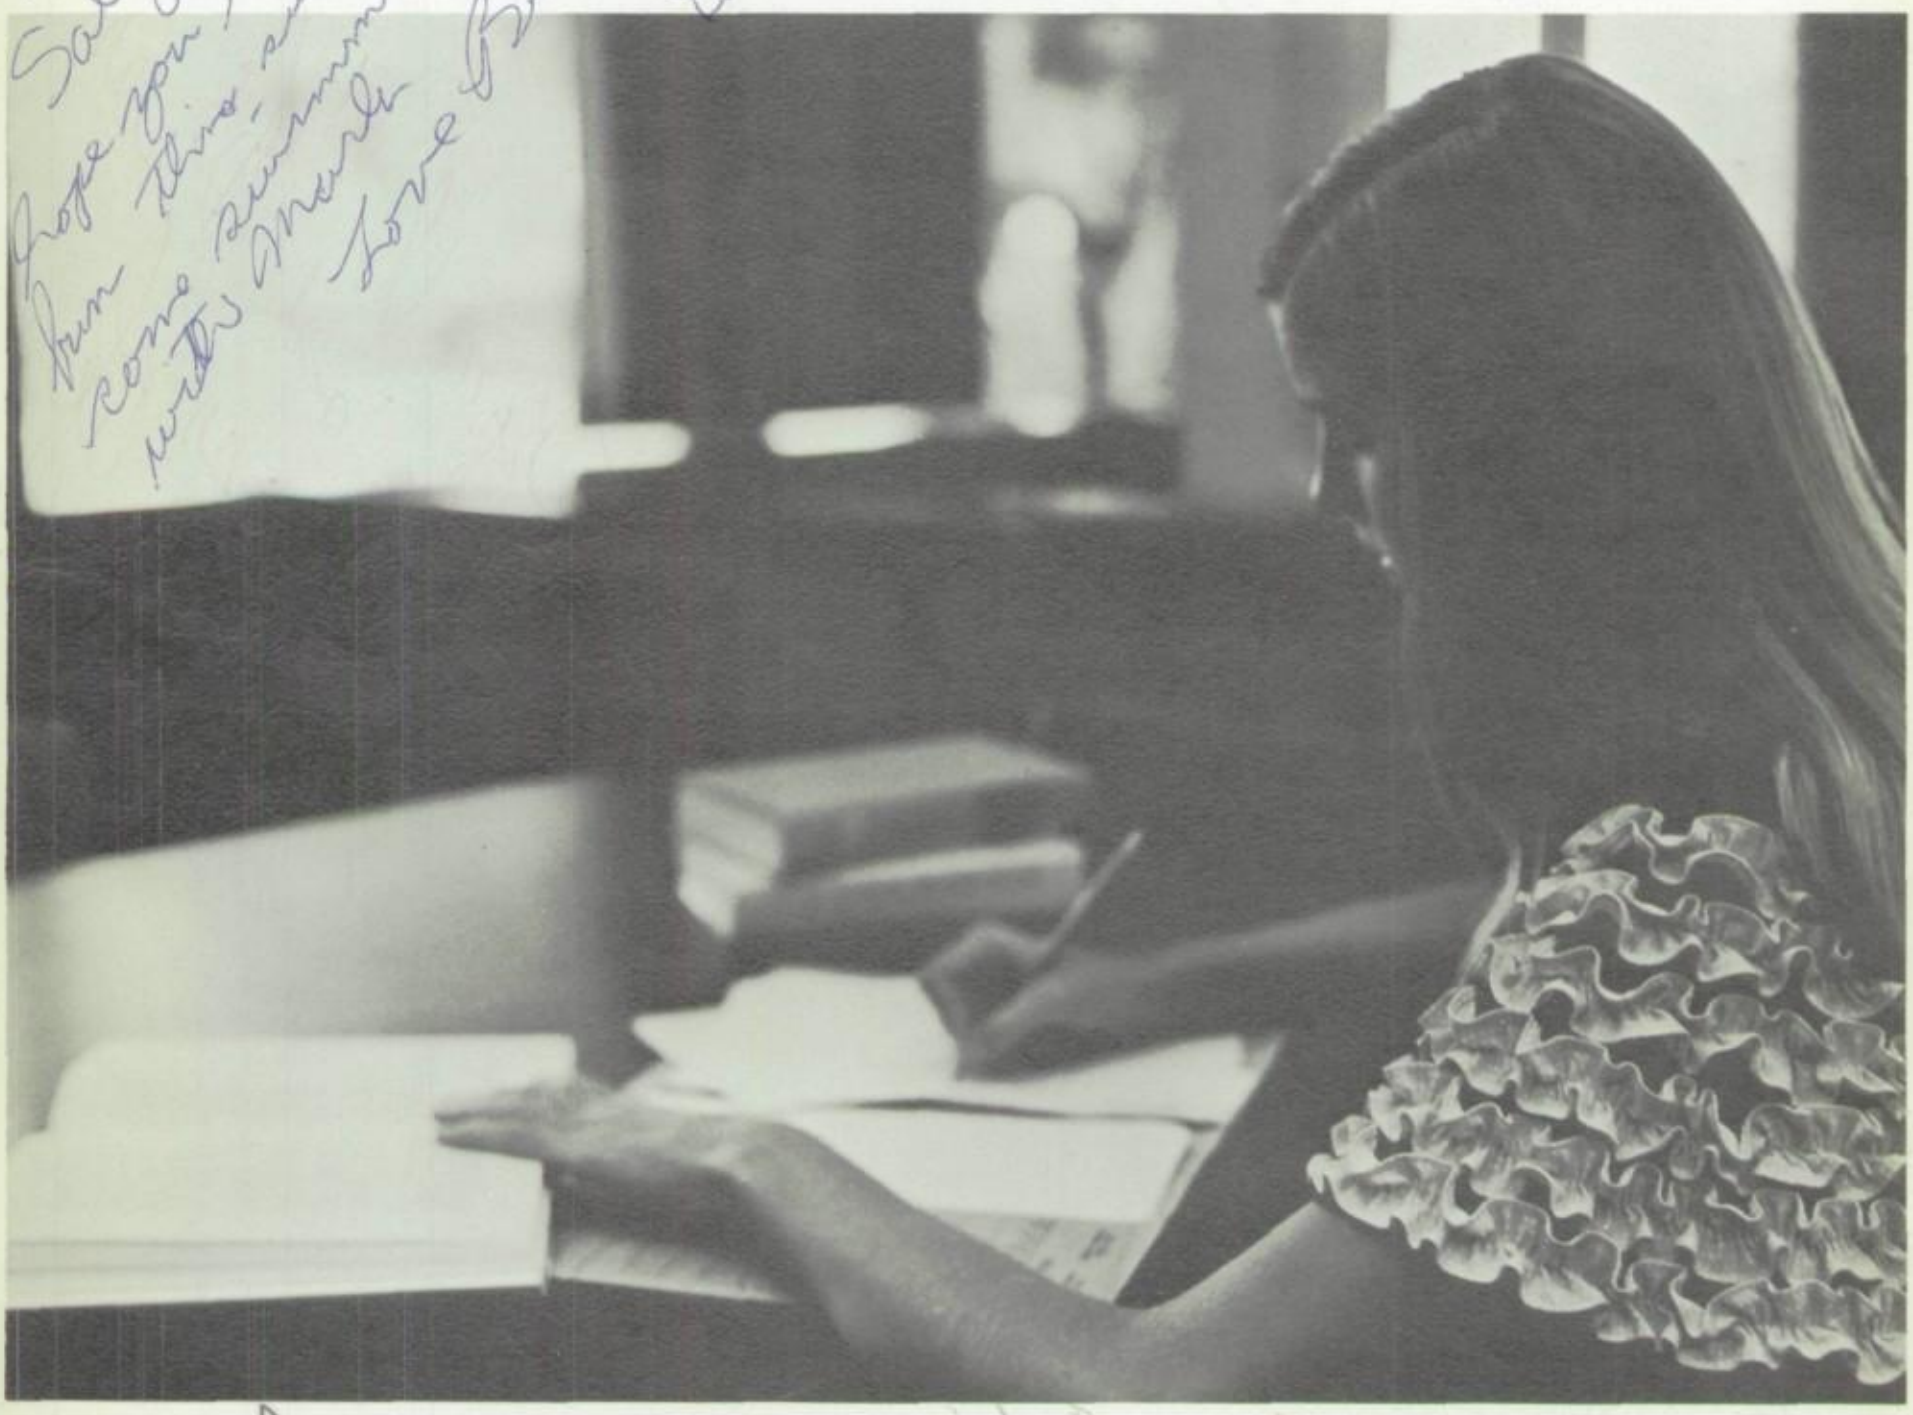
A Ray of Light—The Birth of a New Day . . .

The golden sun appeared over the mountains in the east. Sunrise—the day had begun. As we awoke from our ladened slumber we found that a new day had arrived and within us were born new hopes. We realized the importance of our future as we advanced from day to day acquiring more knowledge and new honors. We knew that it was here that we were to build the foundation of our character and pave the road to our success. We knew what we were, and were in search of what we may be.

We shared our talents and our enthusiasm, our spirit and at times our defeats as we were caught up in an ever progressing school life. We studied hard and long but always had time for a football game or a dance. Challenges did not bother us as we recalled the words of Homer that "He hath the flower of youth, wherein is the fullness of strength."

As the days passed by, they seemed shorter and the fast-moving times swept us up. Rarely did we find time to muse in quiet contemplation but when we did, those moments were well spent, for as Rochefoucauld said, "Youth is a perpetual intoxication; it is the fever of reason."

We pondered questions which men have been meditating for thousands of years. We didn't find the answers but that was not what was important. The year concluded as we walked "In the Path of the Sun," our futures no longer those unknown shadows before us.



The life which is unexamined is not worth living.

School District One has received statewide and national recognition. Assistance from the district has been requested for local and federal projects.

Superintendent Robert D. Morrow, along with his staff, worked closely with the school board in striving for more adequate facilities for faculty and students.

The Board of Education faced such issues as financing the schools and keeping the curriculum up to date. Attempting to eliminate double sessions, with an enrollment of approximately 50,000 students, was also a major problem.

Each of the five school board members was elected for a five-year term with one person up for re-election each year. Board meetings, open to the public, were held monthly for frank discussions on current problems.

Palo Verde's organization, the Parent-Faculty Group, contributed many new and constructive ideas for the progress and advancement of Tucson schools.

Mr. Alan Hawthorne, Mr. Elbert Brooks, Dr. Robert Morrow, Dr. Thomas Lee and Mr. Hugh Summers served as School Board administrators. The staff's main job was to keep the schools running.

District One Assisted on Federal Projects

School board meetings were held every month and were open to the general public. Dr. D. L. Secrist, Mrs. Bruce Dusenberry and Soleng Tom discussed several problems such as double sessions.

Mr. Hawthorne, a former Principal of Palo Verde, addressed the School Board in a meeting.

Principal Arranged PV Teaching Schedule

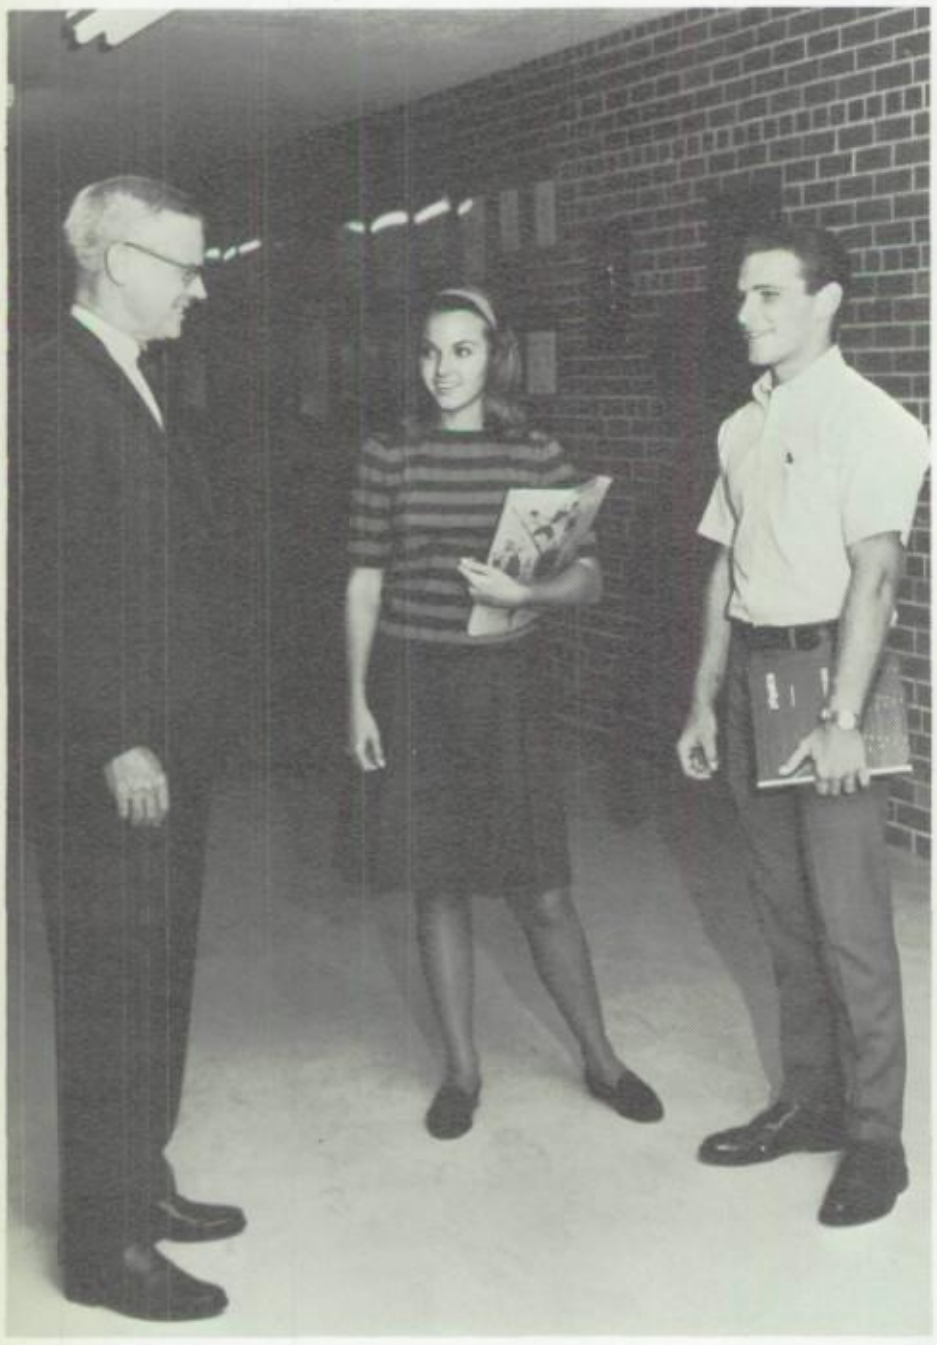
At the beginning of Palo Verde's fifth year, Principal Conrad Quenelle welcomed back the second largest student body in the state.

As principal, he was responsible for the complete operation of the school and for carrying out District policies. Arranging a teaching schedule to provide the best education possible for the students was his foremost duty. Another function was to coordinate efforts to inform students, parents and the public about the school's performance.

Originally from Tennessee, Mr. Quenelle received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Maryville College in Maryville, Tennessee, and completed his Master's Degree at the University of Arizona. His teaching career has included various subjects but his interests centered on science and English. He has also had experience as a counselor. He came to Palo Verde from Catalina High School where he served as assistant principal.

Mr. Quenelle commented that the spirit and attitude of the students, faculty and staff members scored highly. He also stated that, "It has been a real pleasure for me to be able to work at Palo Verde."

Principal, Mr. Conrad Quenelle, had little free time because of his active schedule and extensive range of responsibilities to the school and students.



Mr. Quenelle observed the daily routine of changing classes during the afternoon session. Students used the five minute period to go to their lockers.

Mr. Conrad Quenelle and his secretary, Mrs. Bonnie Schmidt, met the challenge of scheduling both teachers and students for the new school year of 1966-67.

Assistant Principals, Mr. Eugene Guirl and Mr. William Kemmeries, worked between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. each day.

Mr. Guirl, Assistant Principal for Student Personnel, supervised the staff in the Counseling, Guidance and Registrar's Offices. He coordinated activities related to nationally administered tests, as the College Board, National Merit, and American College Exams. Use of the standardized tests was requested and approved by Mr. Guirl. Meetings were arranged between college representatives and students to discuss programs and opportunities at universities. Mr. Guirl organized the procedures that provided for student registration. He also approved students eligible for graduation and organized follow-up studies of graduates.

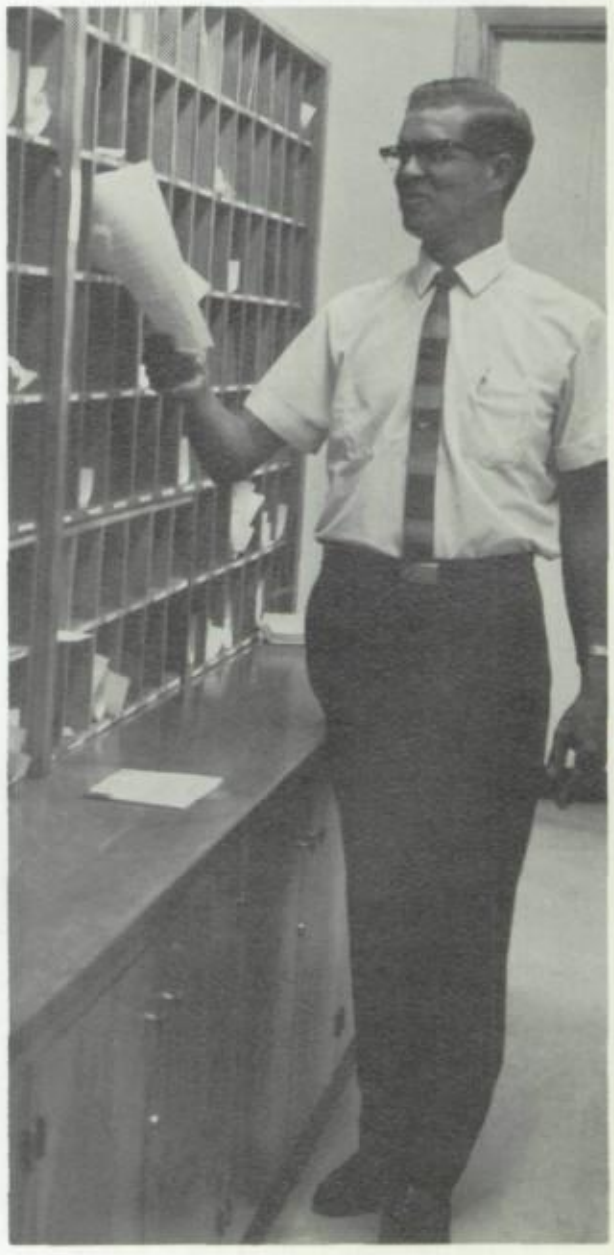
Mr. Kemmeries, Assistant Principal for Student Activities, enforced the regulations and policies in respect to all student activities. He coordinated the activities of student officers and advisors of all classes and school clubs. The athletic program was also supervised by Mr. Kemmeries. Part of his time was spent helping in matters pertaining to discipline. He coordinated assembly programs and published and distributed daily announcements. Another of his many responsibilities was the organization and maintenance of the bells and public address systems.

Mr. Guirl and Mr. Kemmeries aided the principal throughout the school year.

Mrs. Faust and Mrs. Grant, secretaries for Mr. Kemmeries and Mr. Guirl, took a break in their work. They helped keep both offices running smoothly.

Assistant Principals Aided Mr. Quenelle

Wendy Fletcher, Debbie Gibson, Carol Hansen and Janice Aga aided Mr. William Kemmeries in his daily routine. As the Assistant Principal, he was supervisor of student extra-curricular activities.



Mr. Eugene Guirl, Assistant Principal for Student Personnel, checked his mailbox each school morning in the faculty workroom. Mr. Guirl was in charge of scheduling classes for Palo Verde students.

Deans Supervised Many School Functions

Mrs. Hall, Dean of Girls' secretary, and Mrs. Birkett, Dean of Boys' secretary, worked to organize the schedules of both deans. Issuing call slips and making appointments were among their duties.

Deans worked with the faculty, administrators, counselors, law officers and parents in an attempt to assist students with discipline and other problems.

Mrs. Emily Cox was Dean of Girls. Her duties included organizing the social calendar, advising Girls' League and checking the announcements.

Mrs. Cox stated that the girls did an excellent job of presenting a good image of the average young adult.

The Dean of boys was responsible for the discipline of boys. Mr. Slawson was the dean in early morning hours and Mr. Evans worked the rest of the day. They supervised various school functions and had charge of the hall monitors.

Mr. Evans was co-sponsor of homeroom federation. Mr. Slawson had charge of the assemblies and also assisted Mr. Guirl with his duties as Assistant Principal.

A new program was started this year to provide more time for counselors to help students with individual problems. This enabled counselors to spend less time with routine activities.

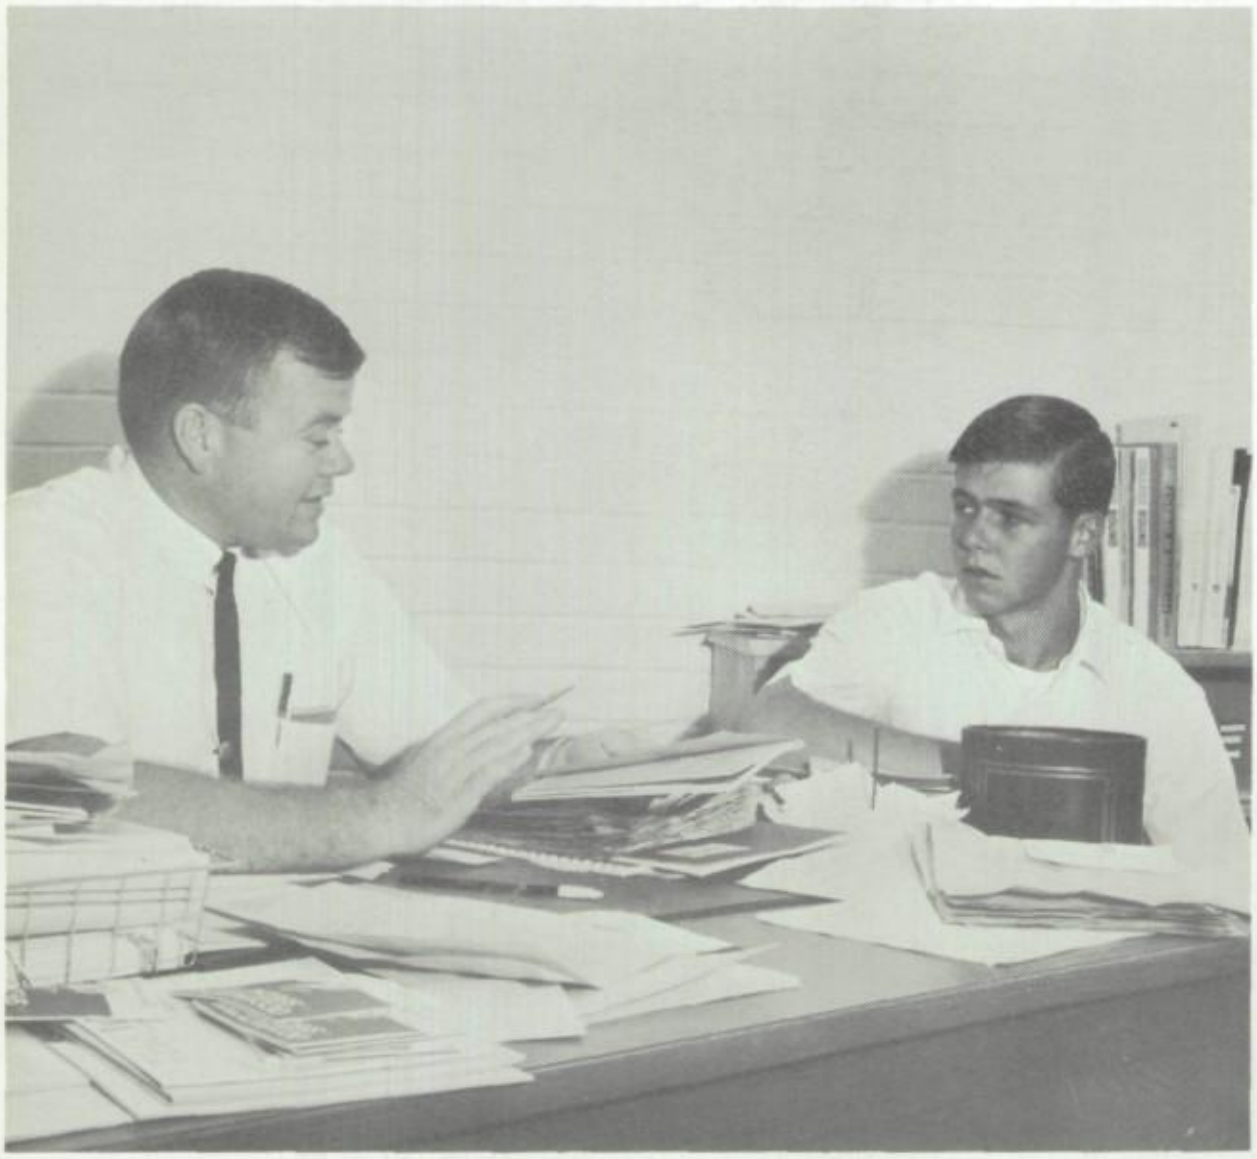
A guidance center was set up in the basement. Basically, it handled student testing, scholarships, registration, schedule changes and all career and vocational information.

With the help of Mr. Milner and his T.V. productions class, the use of closed circuit television provided the counselors with an excellent aid in executing their program. Mr. Quenelle ordered a quantity of essential production equipment for this purpose.

Counselors who had taught courses other years discontinued their teaching and concentrated totally on counseling. In this way they were able to give better assistance to students.

Along with the large number of students came many busy hours, but the counselors managed to be available whenever necessary.

New Program Gave Counselors More Time



Mr. Murphy assisted Student Body President Bruce Bouchard in selecting the college of his choice. They consulted catalogues which listed the entrance requirements and opportunities for scholarships.

Students took advantage of books and pamphlets that were available to them in the office.

A common occurrence in the counselors' office was students waiting for their appointments. Books and pamphlets on colleges and universities were available for them to read. Counselors helped to prepare students for college and future vocations and also assisted in discussing individual school problems.

to Help Students

New offices were built in the basement to house not only counselors and Mr. Slawson, but also Mr. Egbert, Principal of the future Saguaro High School.

Miss Ivanoff checked to see if counselor Lee Hubbard was available for a student appointment. She arranged schedules to suit counselors and students.

English Classes Explored Team Teaching

Experimenting with team teaching in order to use room space efficiently, Mr. Milton Agte, Mrs. Elinor Warren and Dr. Robert White instructed several combined senior English classes. The purpose of team teaching was to encourage students to feel that they were on the same level of understanding as their teachers. In this way, objective discussions were held, and an appreciation of world literature was gained.

A study of anthology occupied much of the freshman courses in English. Structures of language, which would prepare them for future years, were heavily emphasized.

Sophomores discovered a fuller interpretation of the novel and further examined short stories. Drama was explored through a study of several plays.

Research work in the library brought rewarding experiences for juniors. They concentrated on the aspects of American literature. Juniors also studied through team teaching in an effort to associate American literature with American history. Mr. Phil Roy and Mr. Earl Caldwell taught these classes.

High ability courses on all four levels were available to students with above-average grades who wished to supplement their knowledge of the subject.

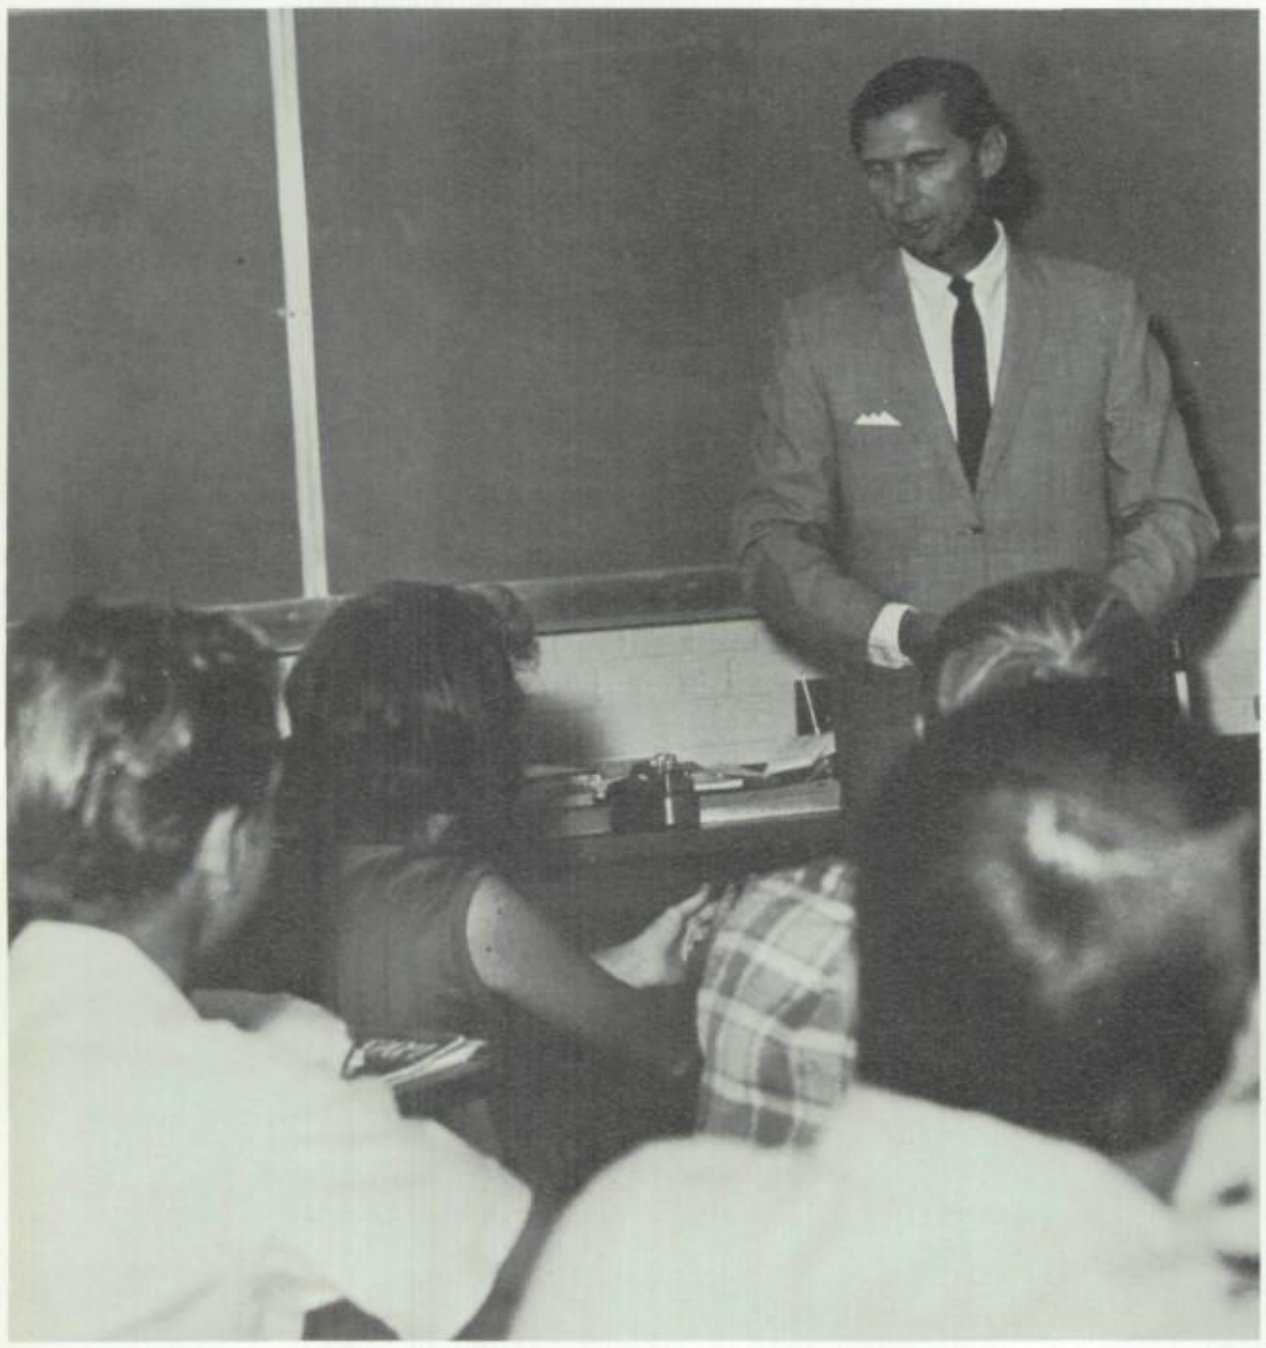
Students Studied Man's Influence On Time



Despite the unusually early school hours, Mr. Gordan Kipps found time to speak to one of Miss Ida Mae Nowels' American problems classes. He talked to the students on his numerous political experiences.

Mr. Ismay lectured to his world geography class, a course taken in the Freshman or Sophomore year.

Social Studies courses were offered to acquaint students with the past as well as the present. In order to graduate, students were required to take world history or world geography, American history and American problems. Oriental civilization, a study of the peoples of the Far East, and Latin American history, an introduction to Latin culture, were offered as electives to interested students.

Fifteen delegates were chosen to represent the school in the Model United Nations. The students were chosen by the faculty according to their knowledge of foreign nations and governments. Students represented various countries and discussed many world problems.

Select students were also chosen to attend the United States Youth Program at a nationwide convention that was held in Washington, D. C. Their selection was based upon a series of interviews and examinations.

Mr. John O'Dell taught American history, a course required for graduation. After a class discussion, he answered a question for three of his students—juniors Jan Wheaton, Steve Wright and Pat Johnson.

Mr. Tweedy's Latin American history class often had group discussions. Gayle Larson, Suzy Lamm, Joe Lilley and Linda Razo participated in a panel concerning South America, Central America and Mexico. They studied the vast influence of geography on transportation and communication.

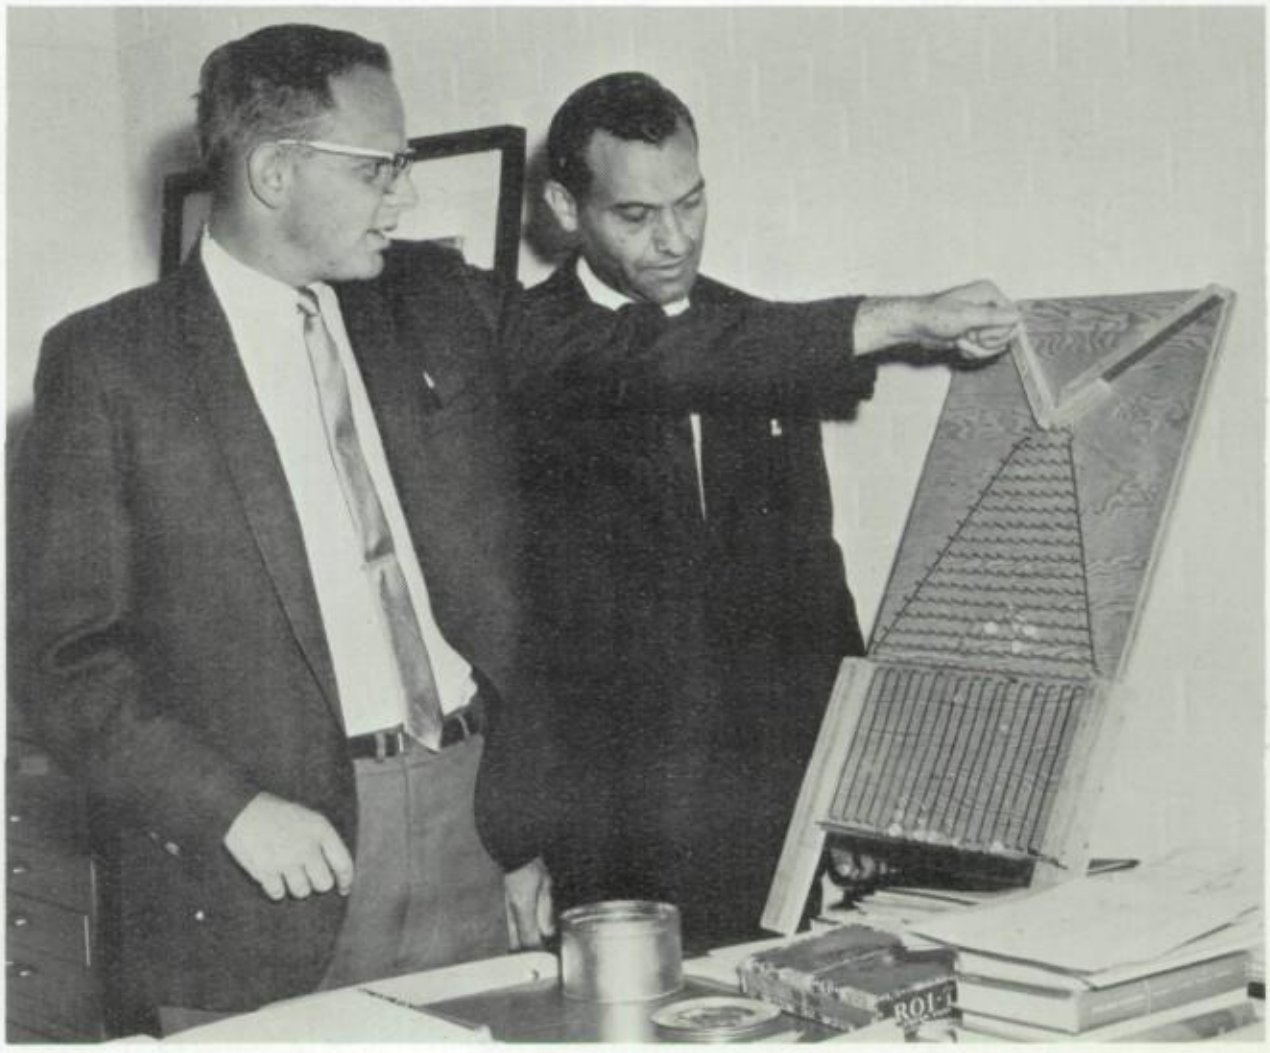
Mr. Richard Brown, algebra teacher, assisted Jon Aitken in solving a difficult mathematics problem.

Solid geometry classes often studied geometric forms. Mr. Haluck showed examples of these figures.

Math courses often involved the use of new instruments and math devices. Math teachers Mr. Raskob and Mr. Geisert discussed the various projects that their classes worked on during the year.



Grouping Method Used in Math Department

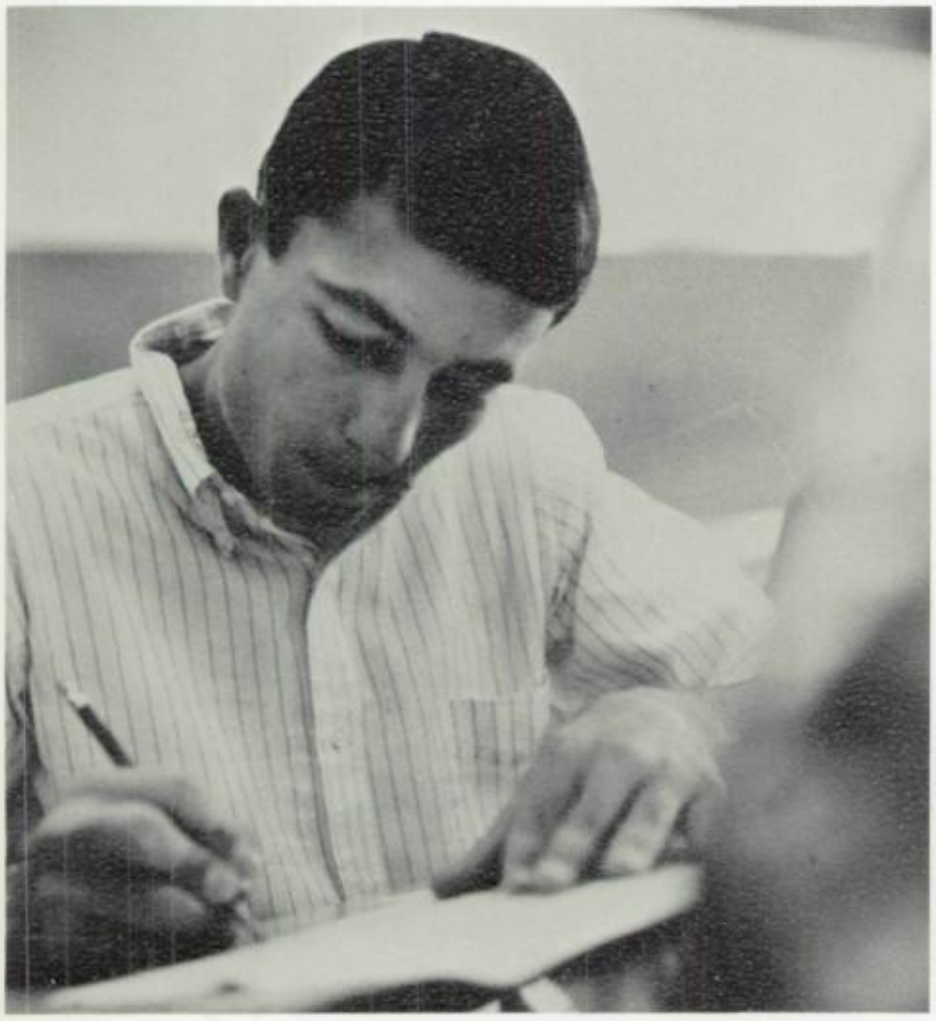
Grouping techniques were used this year for the first time in math classes. Offered to first year algebra students, the new method enabled teachers to group students according to their ability.

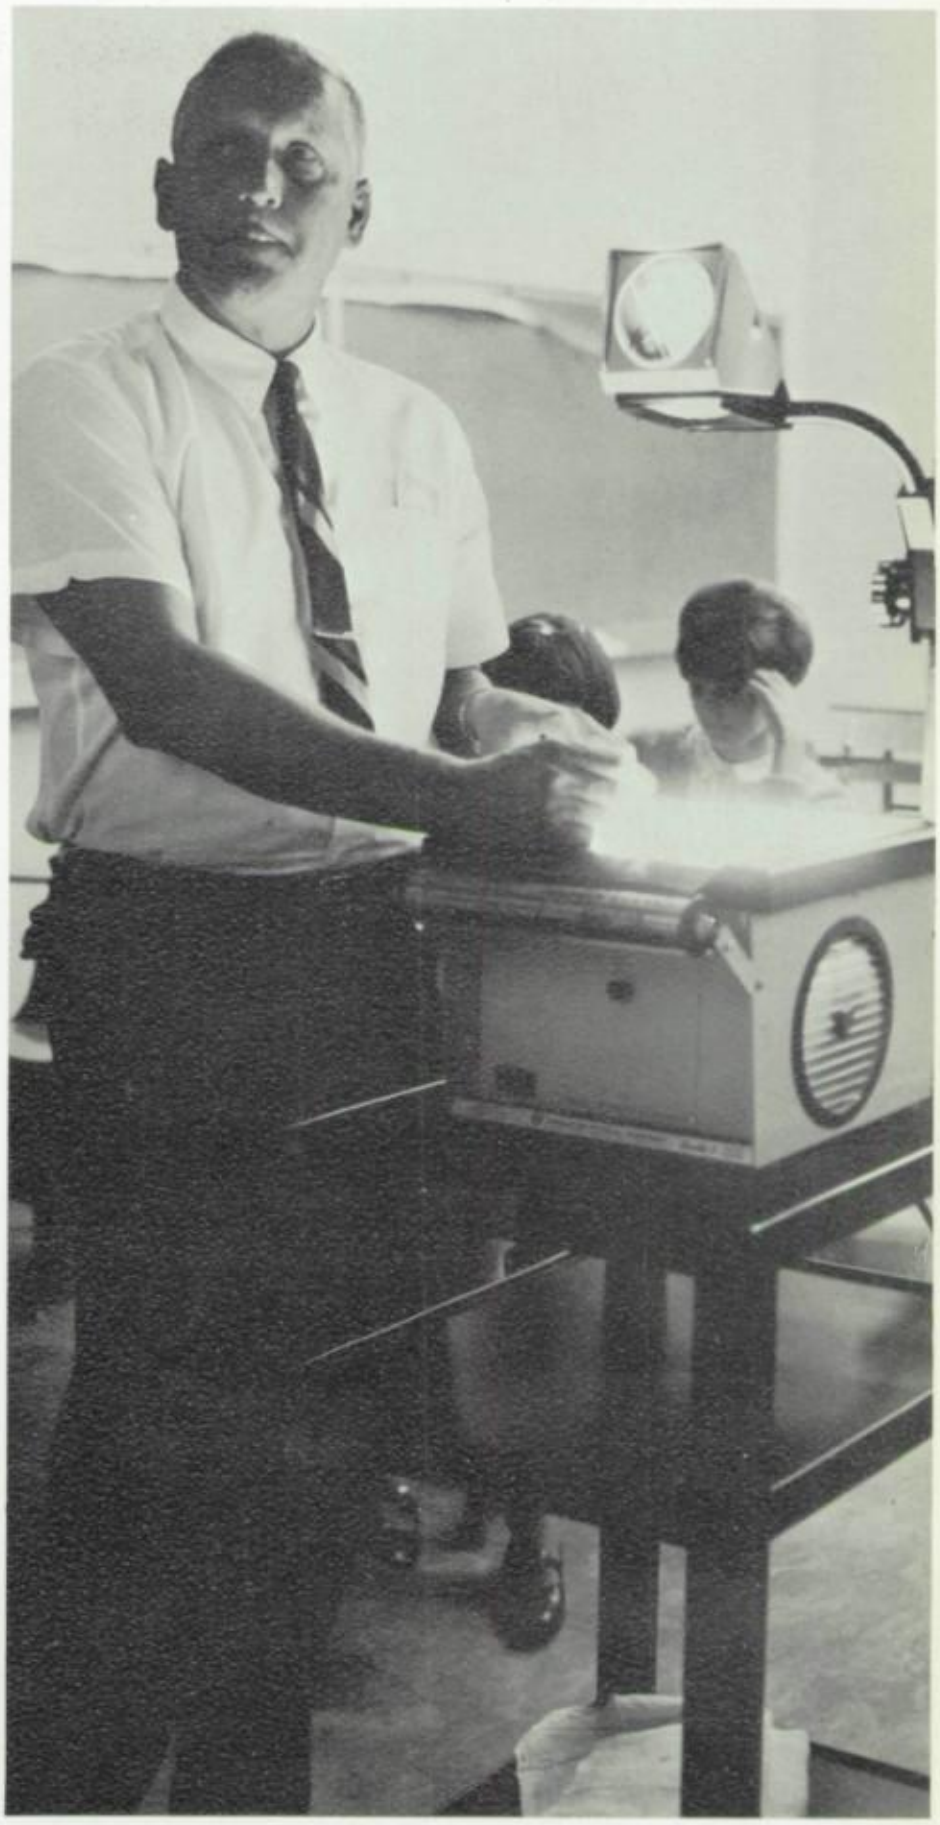
Modern math was emphasized. New books included the Basic Math, General Math and First Year Algebra textbooks. College preparatory math was presented for the first time. This course centered around the theory of economics.

Each year the Mathematics Department sponsors three contests. The importance of reasoning ability rather than achievement was emphasized in the Santa Clara National Math Examination. Also given were the National Math, as well as the Arizona State Math Tests.

Two credits of mathematics were required for students to graduate. Algebra and plane geometry were mandatory for college entrance. College algebra, trigonometry, calculus and data processing were the advanced courses offered for those students wishing to obtain a degree in a special field.

Junior Rick Riddle concentrated on a test in second year Algebra and Trigonometry. Comprehension and mathematical ability are essential in this course.





First year algebra students listened as Mr. Droegemeier demonstrated problems with the opaque projector. Algebra was required for advanced math classes.

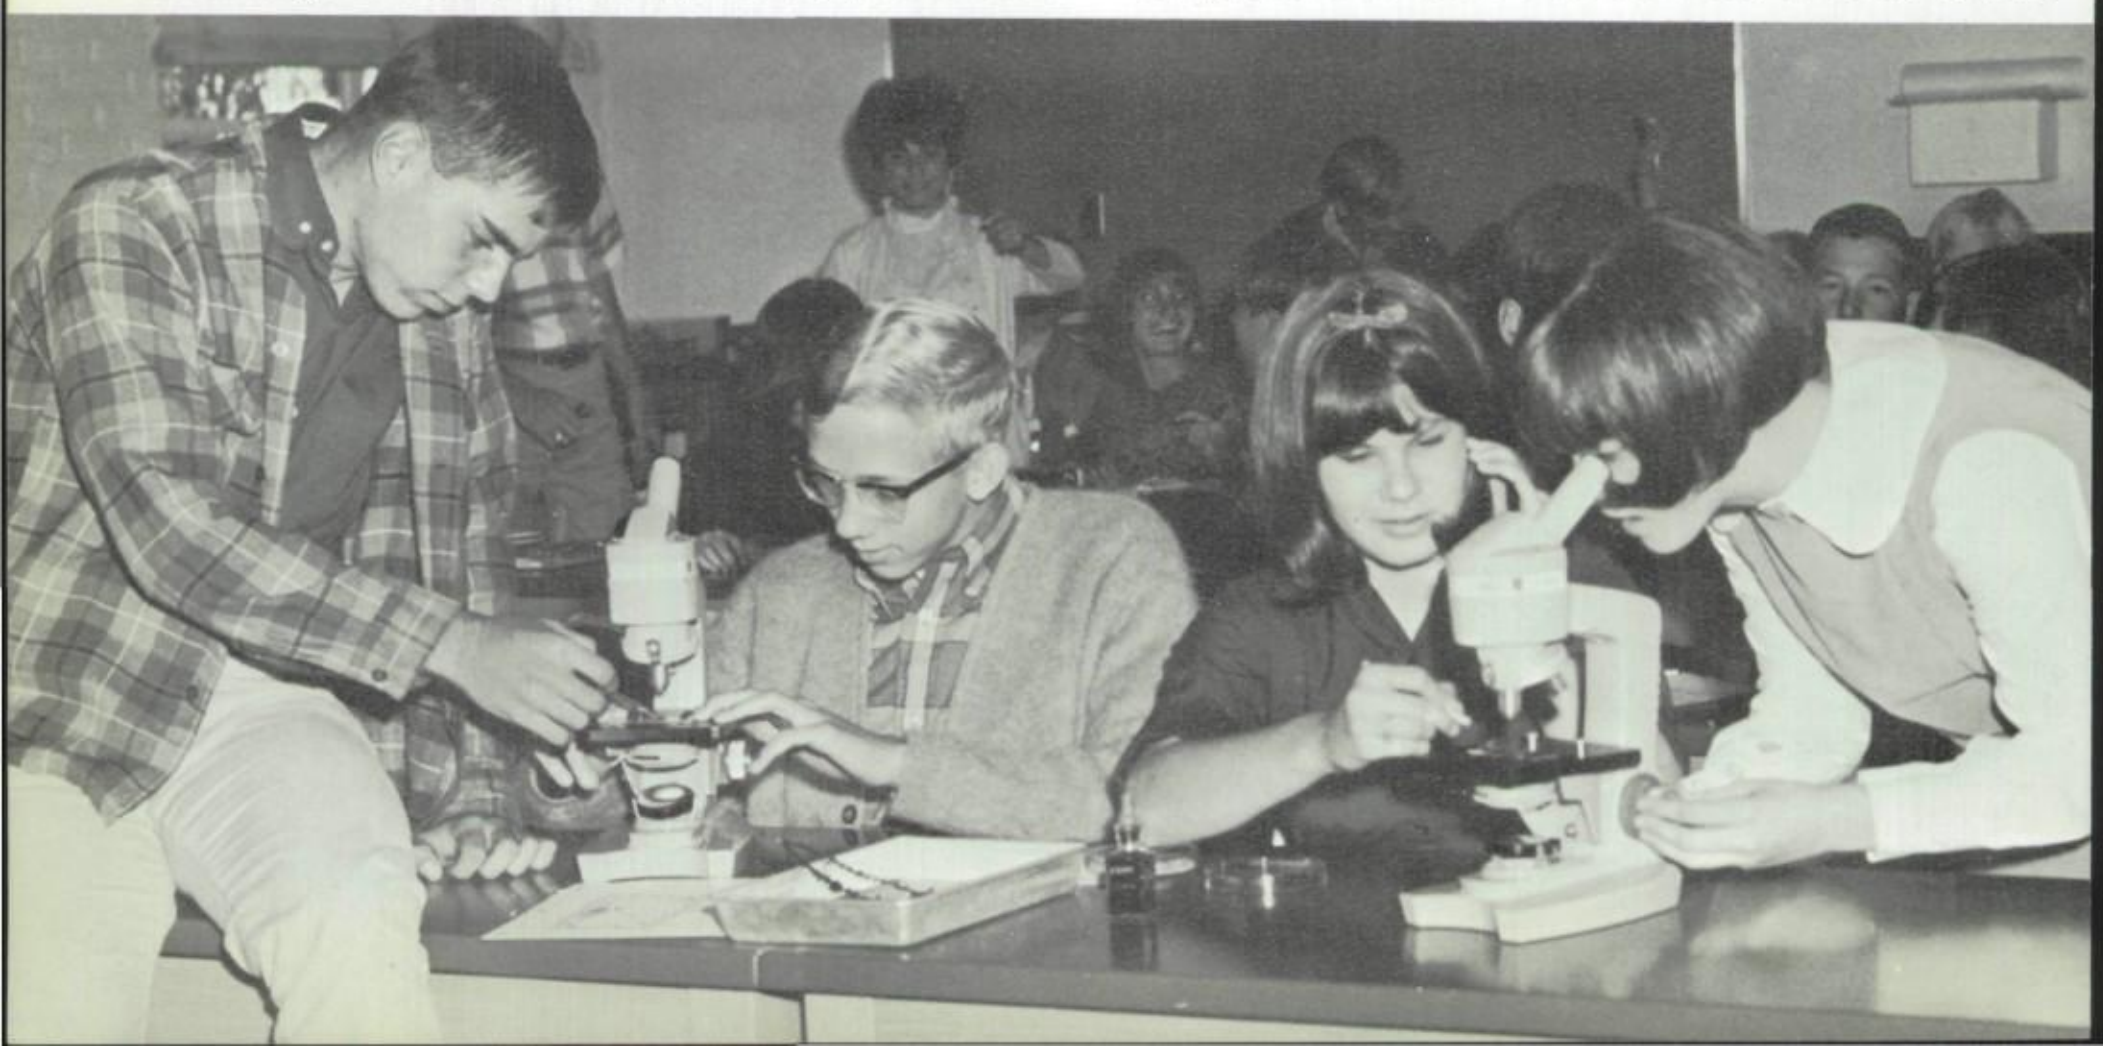
Dissecting different types of animals and studying substances were common tasks in Biology classes. During lab, Carl Riney, Allen Hodges, Aida Astiazaran and Janis Lynn examined several specimens. This course covered a wide range, teaching students the science of life which deals with living organisms.



Earth science was studied in two physical science classes for the first time this year. This course was only offered to freshmen.

Varied subjects were studied in physical science, biology, chemistry and physics. Any two of these classes were required for college entrance.

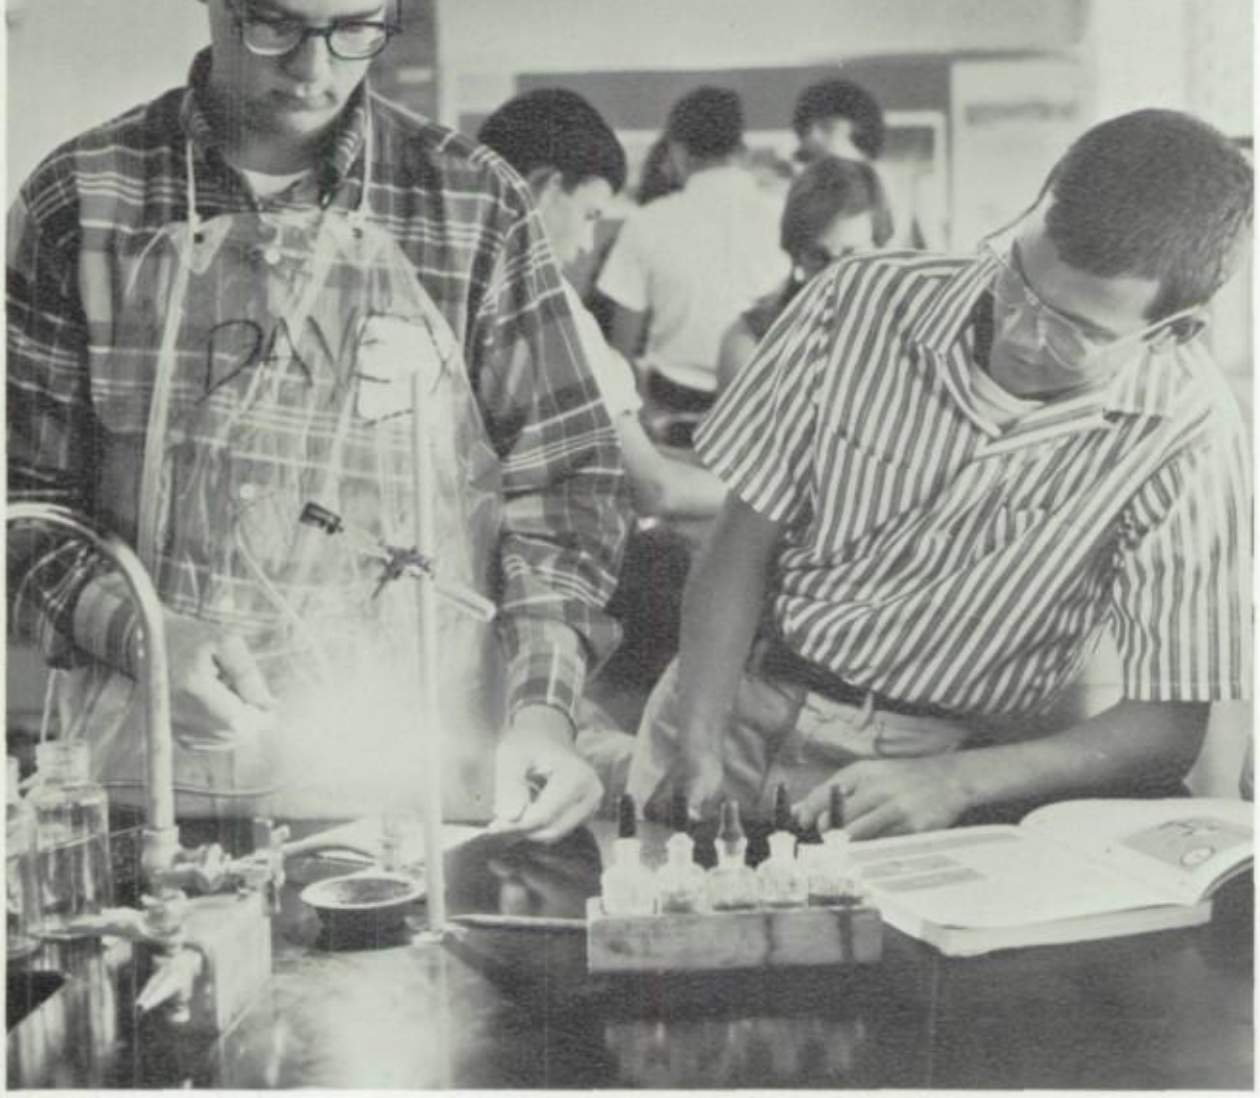
Biology and physical science classes instructed students in basic science principles and supplied background for further study. These courses were mainly attended by freshmen and sophomores. Chemistry was offered to further develop a clear knowledge of different elements and the chemical make-up of matter around us. Skilled students continued in physics which provided a chance for more independent studies. These classes varied their program between laboratory assignments and regular classwork.

College level courses were offered in chemistry and biology. Students were able to receive college credits for completing these classes after taking an advanced placement test.

Several students worked on long term projects this year which were exhibited in local and state science fairs. Other students served as lab assistants. Their main objective was to assist teachers by helping to grade papers and set up labs.

Physics students, Eric Chaison and Arthur Goldberg, worked on an experiment during class. This gave them a chance to use techniques they had learned.

Interested Freshmen



Chemistry students averaged two hours of lab per week. Tom Davey and Rick Cundy participated in an experiment involving properties of oxygen. A report was required on completion of each test.

Chemistry teacher, Mr. Robert McConeghy tested chemical reactions before presenting a demonstration.

Foreign Language

Four years of Spanish, French, German, Russian, Latin and Hebrew were offered by the Foreign Language Department. A fifth year of Spanish could be taken by those who were eligible.

Much oral work and repetition was necessary in studying all foreign languages. After many hours of practice, pupils were expected to be able to hear and repeat the correct word and syllable pronunciations. In correlation with text books, music and dialogue tapes were used for listening comprehension and to hear the natural tone and speed of the language.

In the first year of a language students learned the basics of sentence structure, where accents lie, conjugation of regular and irregular verbs and pronunciation of all letters and diphthongs. Different verb tenses, subjunctives and writing and translating simple essays were taught in the second year.

Third year of a foreign language went deeply into culture with the reading of two novels. Speeches and talks were given during the fourth year. More advanced novels having deeper plots were also read. Fifth year of Spanish involved being able to think and speak fluently in the language. Little English was spoken in the classroom.

With the aid of the language laboratory teachers could tell where students needed help. Structural drills were then conducted in those areas. Many teachers spent extra time at school working with those students who needed special help.

Students were required to take at least two years of a foreign language to meet college entrance requirements.

Marti Cate, Debbie McConeghy and Jackie Brickman worked to complete a French class project. Colorful scenes from France were displayed on the montage.

Sessions in the language lab supplemented regular class work. Spanish students listened to records and tapes to help them understand the dialect better.

Exercise programs were stressed in boys' physical education through group participation. Weekly strengthening and agility exercises were led by boys taking part in the senior leadership program.

Good physical and mental health was the main goal of the Boys' Physical Education Department.

Gymnastics was the largest area in the department. Excellent equipment was provided for student use in this section. The activities of field hockey and hardball were different classes from those offered in other Tucson Public High Schools.

Boys in their senior year who took PE as an elective were involved in senior leadership. They assisted teachers with different activities in freshmen classes.

Modified PE was offered for those with health problems. The activities offered to them were horseshoes, table tennis and modified gymnastics. A doctor's excuse was needed for a boy to be classified into a modified physical education class.

Much time was spent scheduling the facilities so they could be put to maximum use. They were not only shared by both the boys' and girls' classes, but also by the boys in sports.

Variety of PE Activities Presented to Girls

Girls' Physical Education programs were designed to give maximum opportunity for physical development and potential talents. The curriculum was set up so that students were able to choose from numerous activities. Each nine weeks, participation in a new sport was introduced to present variety in several different fields of athletics.

Girls were able to learn many skills during the three essential years of physical education. Advanced classes in dance, tennis, badminton and gymnastics were offered to interested juniors and seniors. Pep leadership was also available as a special course for cheerleaders, songleaders and twirlers.

Health, along with driver education, was a part of the sophomore schedule. Freshmen and juniors took health classes during their PE period.

Girls enjoyed an active game of volleyball during PE class. Students showing special interest were encouraged to be a member of the school team. Girls also participated in other types of athletics.

Trombones were popular instruments of the band because of their wide range of tone control. Students achieved different pitches by altering the position of the slide.

Bob Schock and Lynn Ferber rehearsed for many hours in order to bring to life the successful and amusing play "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." This play was presented during November.

Being able to demonstrate originality and imagination is a necessity for all students. In the fields of music, art, drama and dance, students were given many opportunities to express their creative talents.

A new choir was added to the vocal department due to the large number of students wanting to participate. Both beginning and advanced vocalists were taught correct usage of the voice.

Graduating seniors in advanced art classes presented an exhibit in January. All students were allowed to participate in the annual Spring Art Exhibit.

Freedom of movement and interpretation was important in all modern dance classes. The Capricians, an advanced modern dance group, practiced many hours for their dance programs.

Several plays were presented by advanced drama students. Beginning drama classes were taught how to express emotion and other stage techniques.

Drama student Mary Ann Tully intently studied lines for a coming play to be presented to students.

Classes in the Industrial arts program were designed to give students applicable training in several manipulative skills. In this way, the processes of industry were taught.

Beginning and advanced courses were offered in printing, photography, woodworking, machine shop, welding and auto mechanics. Others included sheet metals, electricity, electronics and mechanical drawing. Pre-engineering drawing class was presented as a newly-developed subject. A new approach to graphic arts resulted in team teaching by Mr. Burdette Bee, Mr. James Daunheimer and Mr. Leonard Chedsey. Girls were enrolled in graphic arts and drafting classes. General metals was a prerequisite to all of the other classes.

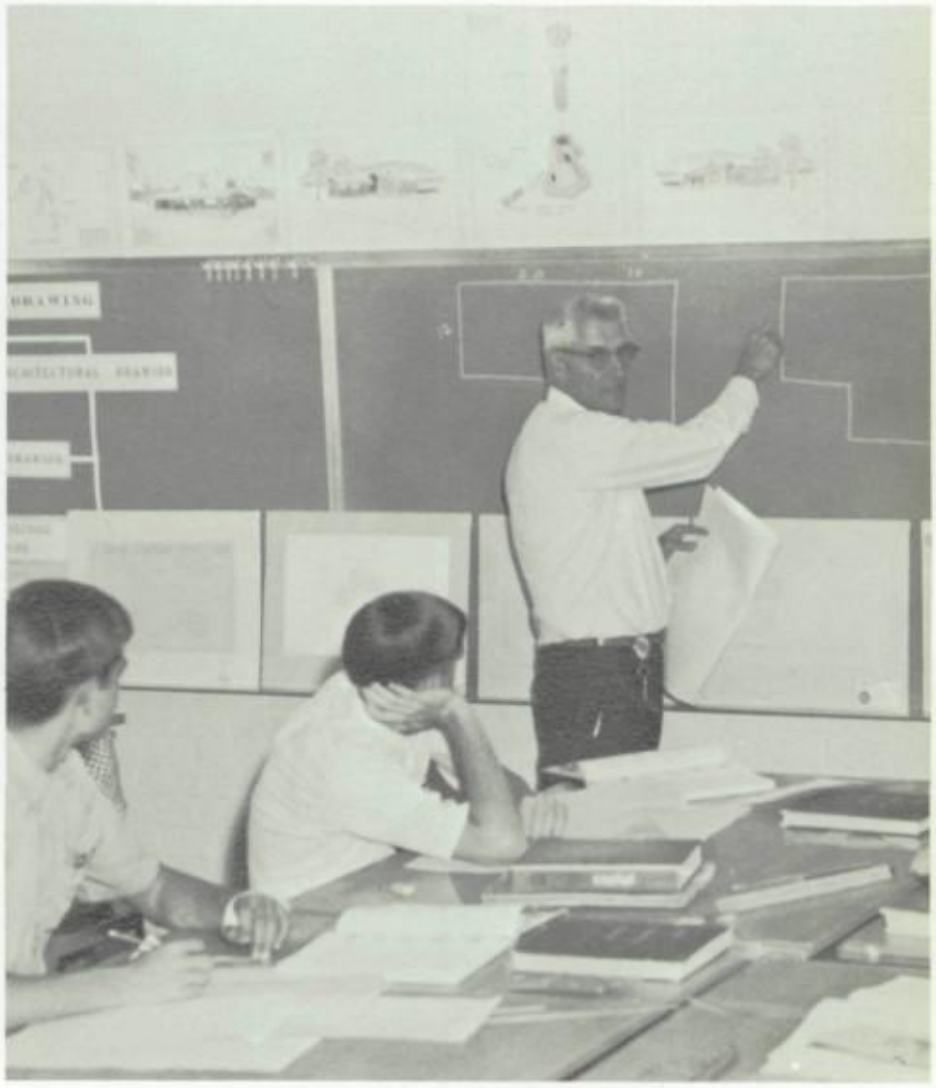
Advanced courses were vocationally oriented and students wishing to further their training were encouraged to enroll in the career courses offered at Tucson High School.

Industrial arts students applied the skills they learned to their hobbies, such as carpentry or car repair. Occupations could be discovered through individual talents in specialized fields.

Uses of different welding equipment were taught to students in the Industrial Arts Department. They demonstrated their ability by making many projects.

Electronics was offered in the Industrial Arts Department. This class helped to prepare participating students for a career in some field of electronics.

Mr. Bush explained the room layout and basic shape of two houses. Mechanical drawing prepared students for the fields of engineering and architecture.



Courses in Business

Stephanie Rudred was employed by McCullough's Flower Shop at Wilmot Plaza. She received the job through the Distributive Education Vocational Program.

Business Education was helpful to students interested in a future career in some field of business. It provided a background for further study in the field of their choice, and explained business functions and operations.

A large variety of subjects were offered. Typing, shorthand, notehand and secretarial practice were taken by students who planned on holding some type of secretarial job. General business, bookkeeping and business law were also taught.

Office machines was an interesting, as well as useful subject. It taught the operations of calculating, adding, mimeographing and ditto duplicating machines. Electric typewriters were explained and used in this course. Knowledge of the different machines was practical for students planning to work in an office.

Further study was provided in the office occupations program. Students who had taken typing, shorthand and secretarial practice were placed in afternoon jobs through this class. Selections were based on interviews and clerical tests.

Business education courses were beneficial to students for personal use, as well as for a future vocation.

Distributive Education classes gave students the opportunity to practice skills which would help them in future jobs. Seniors Dennis Harber and Pat Cavicchioni learned the operation of a cash register.

Mrs. Roberts demonstrated correct finger placement on the keyboard to her first year typing class.

Driver Education

Mr. Karrle lectured his class on heart disease, the major cause of death in the U. S. Health courses were required of all freshmen, sophomores and juniors.

Developing good attitudes toward safety was the main objective of driver education classes. This was achieved by having films and outside speakers. The lecturers were local and state law enforcement officials, including city police and highway patrolmen.

Gravity and inertia were laws of nature studied in textbooks. An understanding of these laws helped students to grasp the basic principles of how a car operates. Arizona rules of driving were also studied.

Other areas of study included the accepted techniques of driving, insurance and what it involves, pedestrian safety and first aid.

Health classes stressed the importance of developing good health habits during high school years. A variety of areas were covered, such as the heart and diet. Also, narcotics, alcohol and tobacco were studied for their harmful effects on people.

Department chairman Mr. Stiles lectured his driver training class on the many hazards of the road.

Interested students who had obtained their learner's permit were taught to drive in drivers' training classes. They gained experience by going out in school cars during class with the instructor.

After making detailed plans, Ginger Snyder, Lynne Harrington and Susan Voss worked together to prepare steaks for their meal. The co-educational class offered students a variety of units.

Four full-time teachers carried the load of 550 students taking homemaking. They taught six different courses in the Homemaking Department.

Beginning clothing and foods for freshmen was the first course. In addition to foods and clothing, it involved units on child care, personal finance and personality.

Advanced clothing and foods were both one-semester courses. Advanced foods included such things as home care for the sick and the preparation of special foods for children and the ill.

In tailoring, students learned to make suits and other tailored outfits.

Another beginning course similar to that for the freshmen was available for seniors. It included a section on marriage and raising a family.

The only co-educational course designed to teach the different phases of running a household was home living. It involved units on foods, family finance, home furnishings and equipment, marriage and handling of small children.

Nurses, Secretaries Had Busy Schedules

Mrs. Nord and Mrs. Zempel had active schedules as the school nurses. They both had the responsibility to the school and students of being on hand to treat and control injuries and illnesses. The nurses were also in charge of such things as keeping health records on file, registering students and acting as part-time health counselors.

The secretaries in the attendance and registrar's offices played important parts in the making of a successful school program. Assistant registrar Mrs. Farrell was responsible for filing and keeping track of every student's schedule. She planned these schedules according to college, general or vocational levels. Mrs. Klomp was the attendance secretary who took care of student absences.

Registrar secretaries Mrs. Tyree, Mrs. Mourer, Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Kenan typed, filed and organized information concerning the student body and activities during the school year.

Attendance secretaries Mrs. Velma Klomp and Mrs. Carmin Huisinga issued needed admit slips to students who had been absent during the year.

Checking daily absences and keeping all students' records in order were two of the duties Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Wheaton handled in the attendance office.

Mrs. Nord and Mrs. Zempel bandaged the injured eye of a student. They were in charge of all minor illnesses and injuries that occurred during school.

Library Added Art Prints for Student Use

Students were able to use the library for many purposes. Books, tapes, pamphlets, magazines and newspapers were handy for research work or entertainment. The educational and pleasurable reference selections were increased to 400 phonograph recordings and 75 filmstrips. Conference rooms were convenient for discussion groups. Plans have been made for a learning center in the basement.

Framed pictures were a new addition to the library. These art prints could be checked out in the same manner as books for use at home. The idea that pictures relate messages, as well as books, served as the basis for this project.

Microfilm was added as a new source of information. With the aid of a machine, students were able to read and make prints of important articles.

The library was available for students' use before and after school hours and between sessions.

Under the direction of Mr. Foss, the bookstore handled student body funds and received all equipment and supplies for the school. Students were able to buy what they needed before and after school and during breaks. Bookstore hours were 6:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Anyone who wished to mail a letter or buy a five-cent postage stamp could do so at the bookstore. The mail was picked up at 1:00 p.m. every day for the convenience of students. Tickets to various athletic events and Olympian sales were also taken care of here.

Attempting to keep the campus clean and safe was the job of 19 custodians and two engineers. Mr. George Wagner, head custodian, made sure buildings and equipment were kept in good order. Janitors cleaned the cafeteria between breaks and the gym, auditorium and class rooms in the evening.

As night watchman, Mr. Darrel Banning checked buildings and doors after school hours. He also locked the gates and watched the parking lot.

Twenty-two women were kept busy in the cafeteria during the six daily breaks.

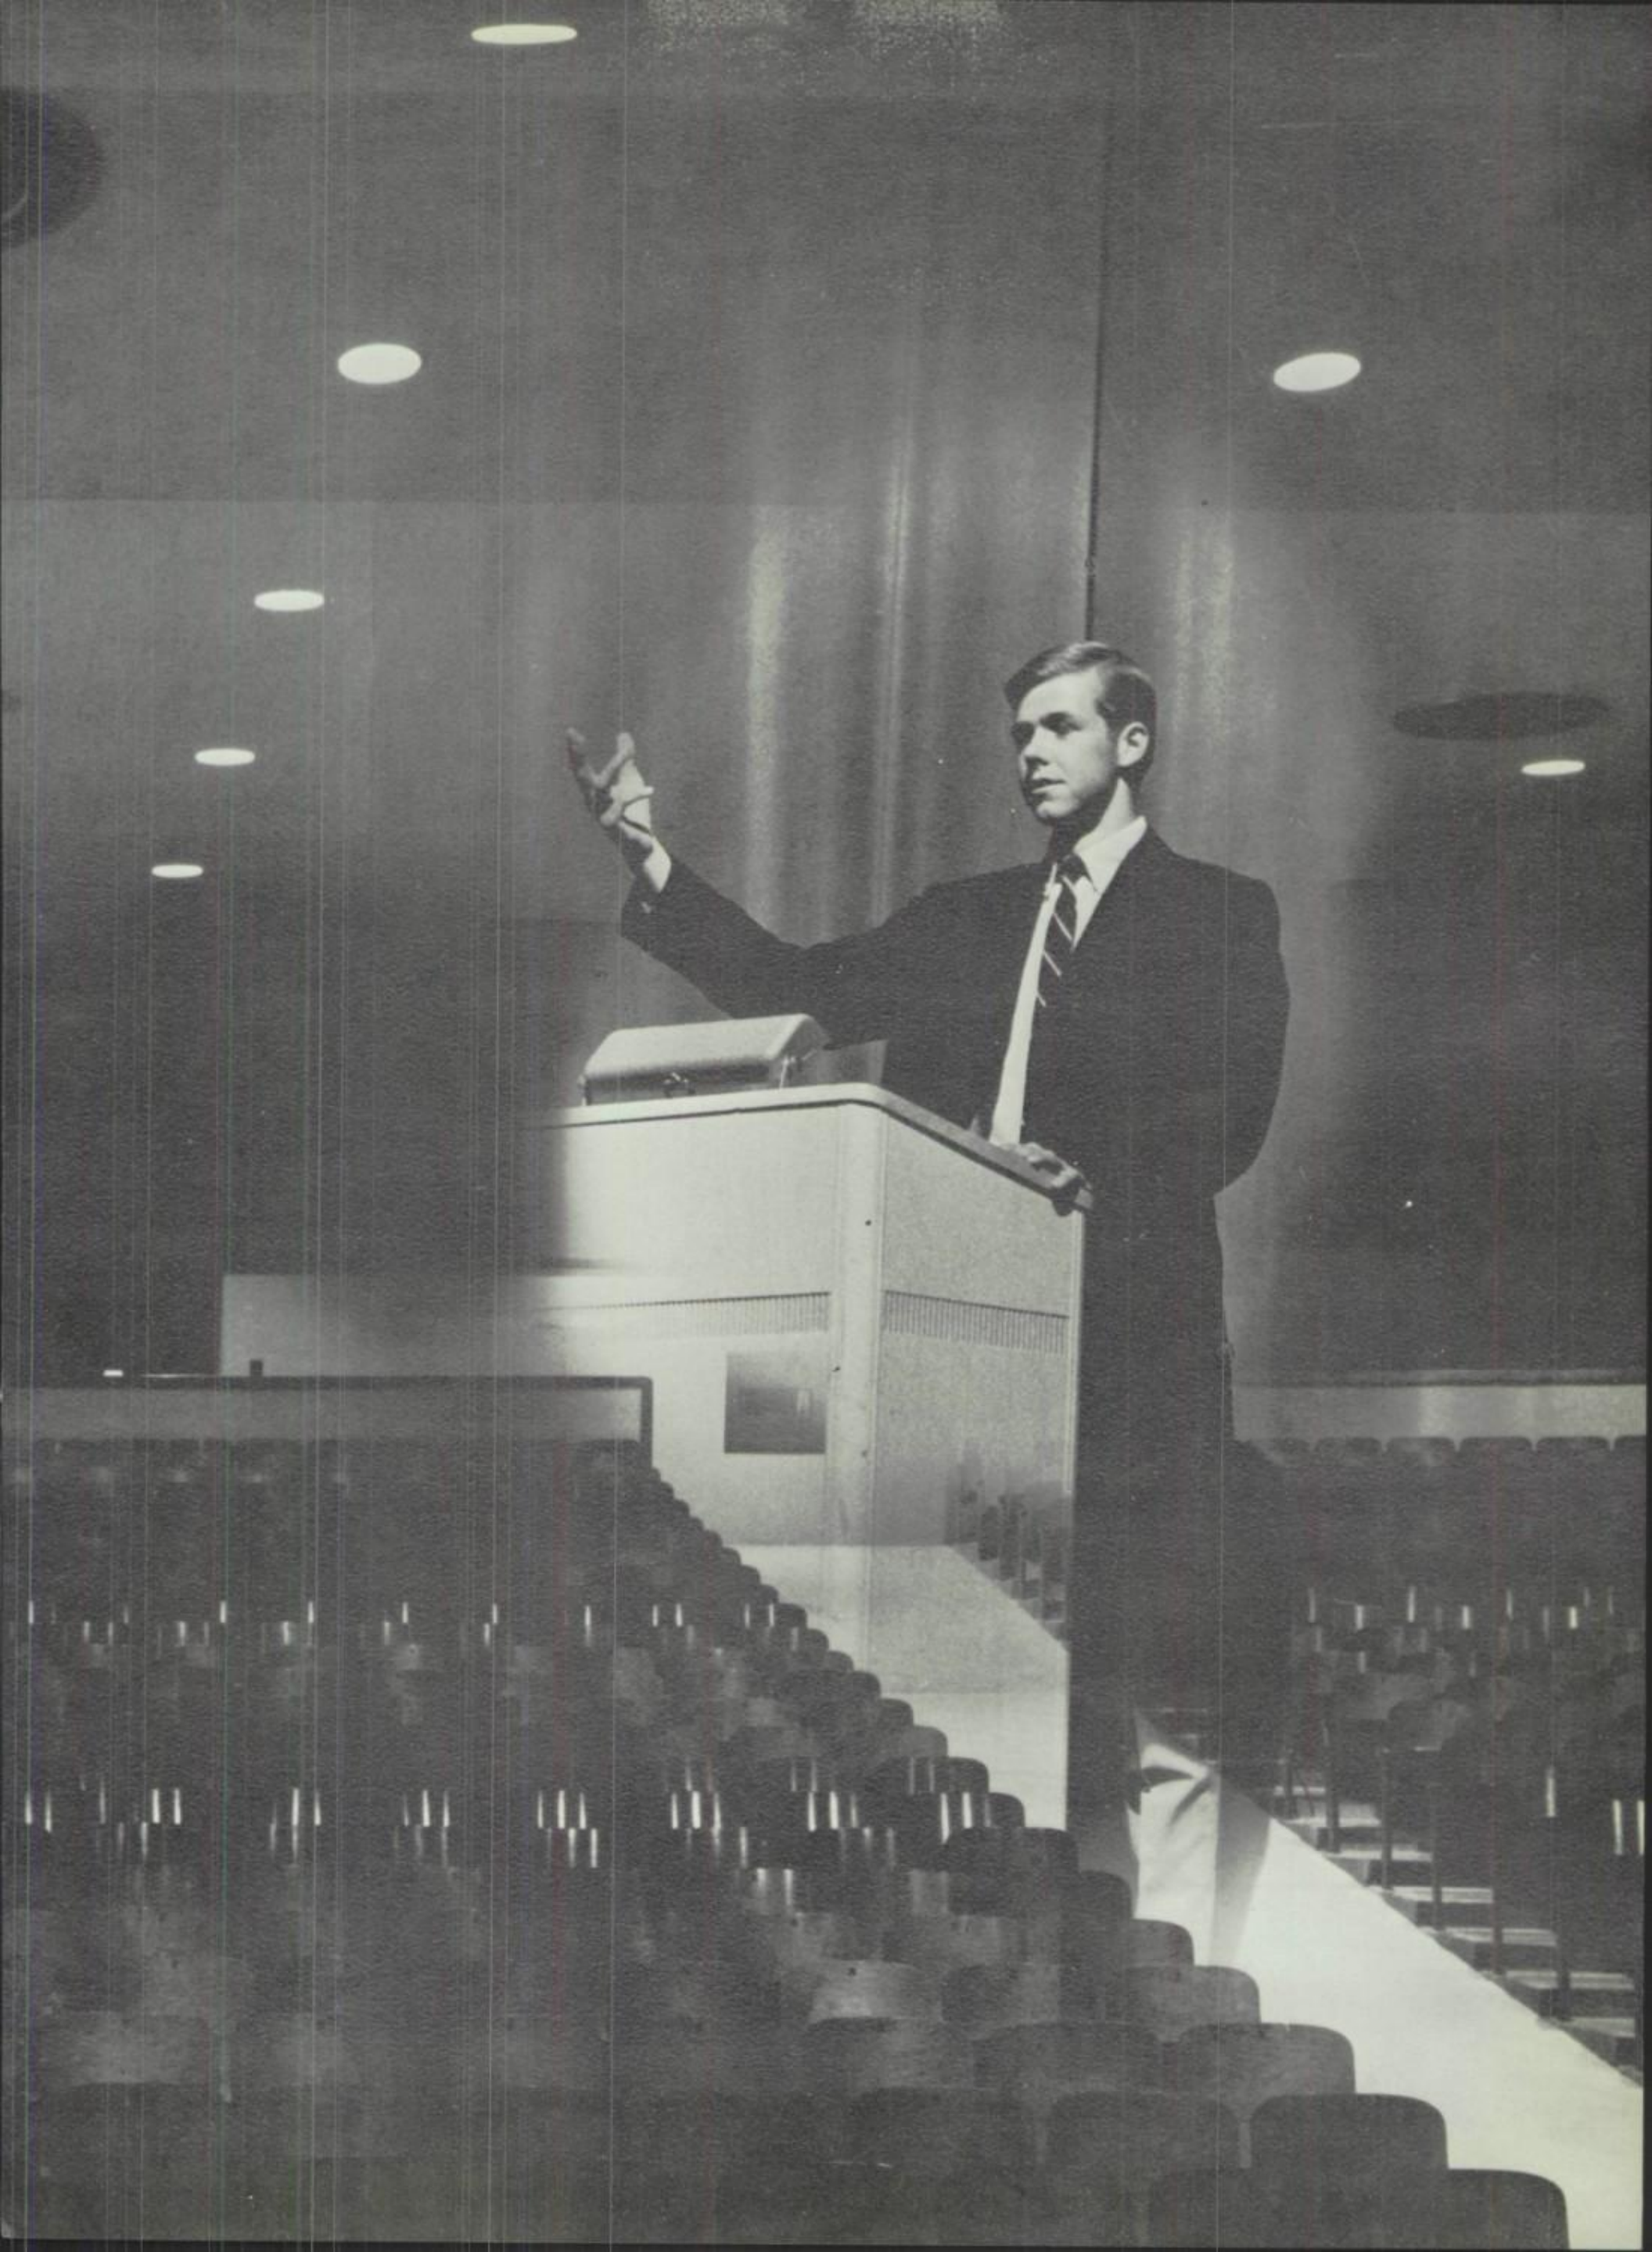
Student Government and Honors



Honor Society advisors, Mr. Duane Deardorff and Miss Ida Mae Nowels discussed the spring initiation ceremony. They helped organize fund-raising projects and assisted in arranging tutoring sessions.

Juniors and seniors made up the 140 members of Palo Verde's chapter of the National Honor Society. Students were chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and service. A 1.8 minimum grade average accumulated for the first five semesters of high school was compulsory.

Tutoring was a volunteer service offered each year by the National Honor Society. Pupils requesting help met with their student teacher during a free period several times a week. The highest demand for tutors was in the academic areas of algebra and geometry, foreign languages, and science. Emily Updegraff was schedule co-ordinator for the aides.

Officers for 1966-67 were President Thad Allen, Vice-President Emily Updegraff, Secretary Peggy Quinn and Treasurer Donna Spogen. Ten new members were initiated during regular assemblies on December 5. A fund-raising Chinese Auction was held late in the year, and plans for spring initiation were carried out in May.

Student Federation was a representative group of the Student Body. Each homeroom chose one class member to represent them. This organization had the power to change school policy and to choose the Student-of-the-Month.

Federation sponsored the cystic fibrosis drive in which over 400 dollars were collected. They supervised the annual December canned food drive in which Palo Verde surpassed all other schools by collecting 4,171 pounds. The food was donated to the Community Christmas Center.

A Safety Week was held to promote safety consciousness in the minds of student pedestrians and drivers.

Eight students were also selected to attend Girls' or Boys' State. Participants formed their own government and elected officials. This gave them a deeper understanding of the responsibilities of being an American citizen.

Bruce Bouchard, Ron Payne, Joe Del Missier and Dan Johnson attended Boys' State which was held at Arizona State College in Flagstaff. Girls' State representatives were Missie Miller, Pat Mileski, Judy Downey and Nancy Givens. This nonpartisan program was held in June at the University of Arizona.

Faculty Chose Model U. N. Representatives

Gabon, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and the United States were represented by Palo Verde students in the Model United Nations. Twenty-one students were involved with this organization. They were chosen by teacher recommendation and then by application.

The purpose of Model U.N. was to show how the United Nations works and the tremendous problems and complexities encircling it. By taking the position of another country, students realized the difficulties involved in solving the problems of that nation and became aware of the advantages of the United States.

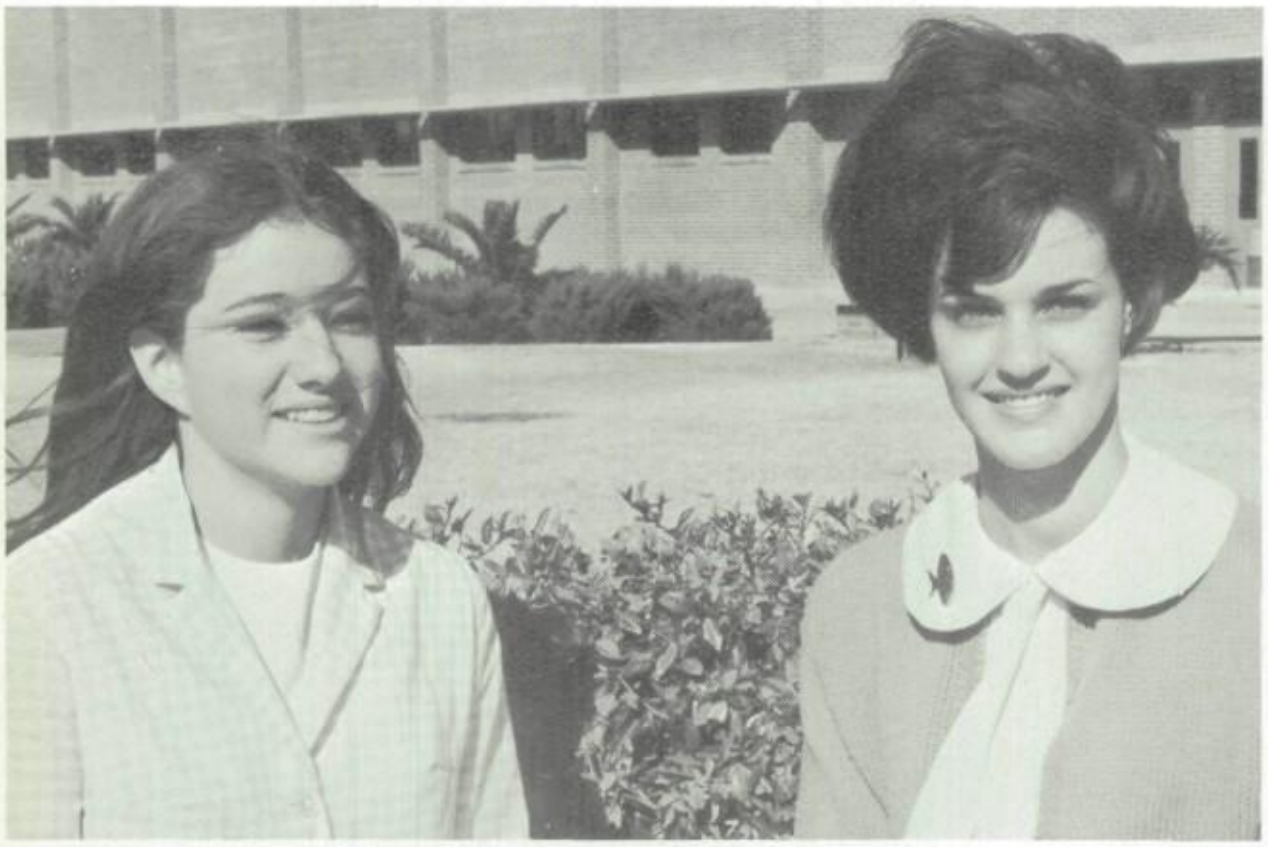
Reports on their country's geography and problems were given to the students along with addresses where additional information could be received. Students then formed work and study groups.

The University of Arizona sponsored the Fifth Annual Model United Nations Convention held December 9-10. Sixty-five schools participated in this state convention.

Model U.N. enabled high school students to participate in an imitation program of the United Nations. Two delegates representing the United States were Janet Kington and Chris Davidson.

Mr. Bool and Peggy Quinn, Model U.N. delegates, discussed some ideas which her delegation could use.

Outstanding Achievements Brought Honors,



Seniors Filomena Stevens and Lynn Waterman were awarded the Marshall Foundation Scholarship for their outstanding ability in scholastic activities. The award was used for books and other expenses.

Students who proved to be outstanding in activities and scholastic achievements were presented with special honors and awards. Time Capsule To Be Reopened in Year 2000

A time capsule was buried by the yearbook and publications staffs on the senior lawn early in June. Encased in it were such items as a copy of the 1967 Olympian, a senior class ring, Letterman's jacket and Palo Verde Post. The cement lid was engraved with directions to open the capsule in the year 2000.

A Girls' League meeting opened the activity calendar for MAY. A dance concert, a joint choral concert and the UA Vocal Festival dominated the first week. Palo Verde and Tempe Union High School Choirs joined together on May 5 to present the Joint Choral Concert.

The fourth annual Senior Show was held on May 10 and 11. Students of the graduating class were the sole performers of the evening, entertaining the Student Body, faculty and parents.

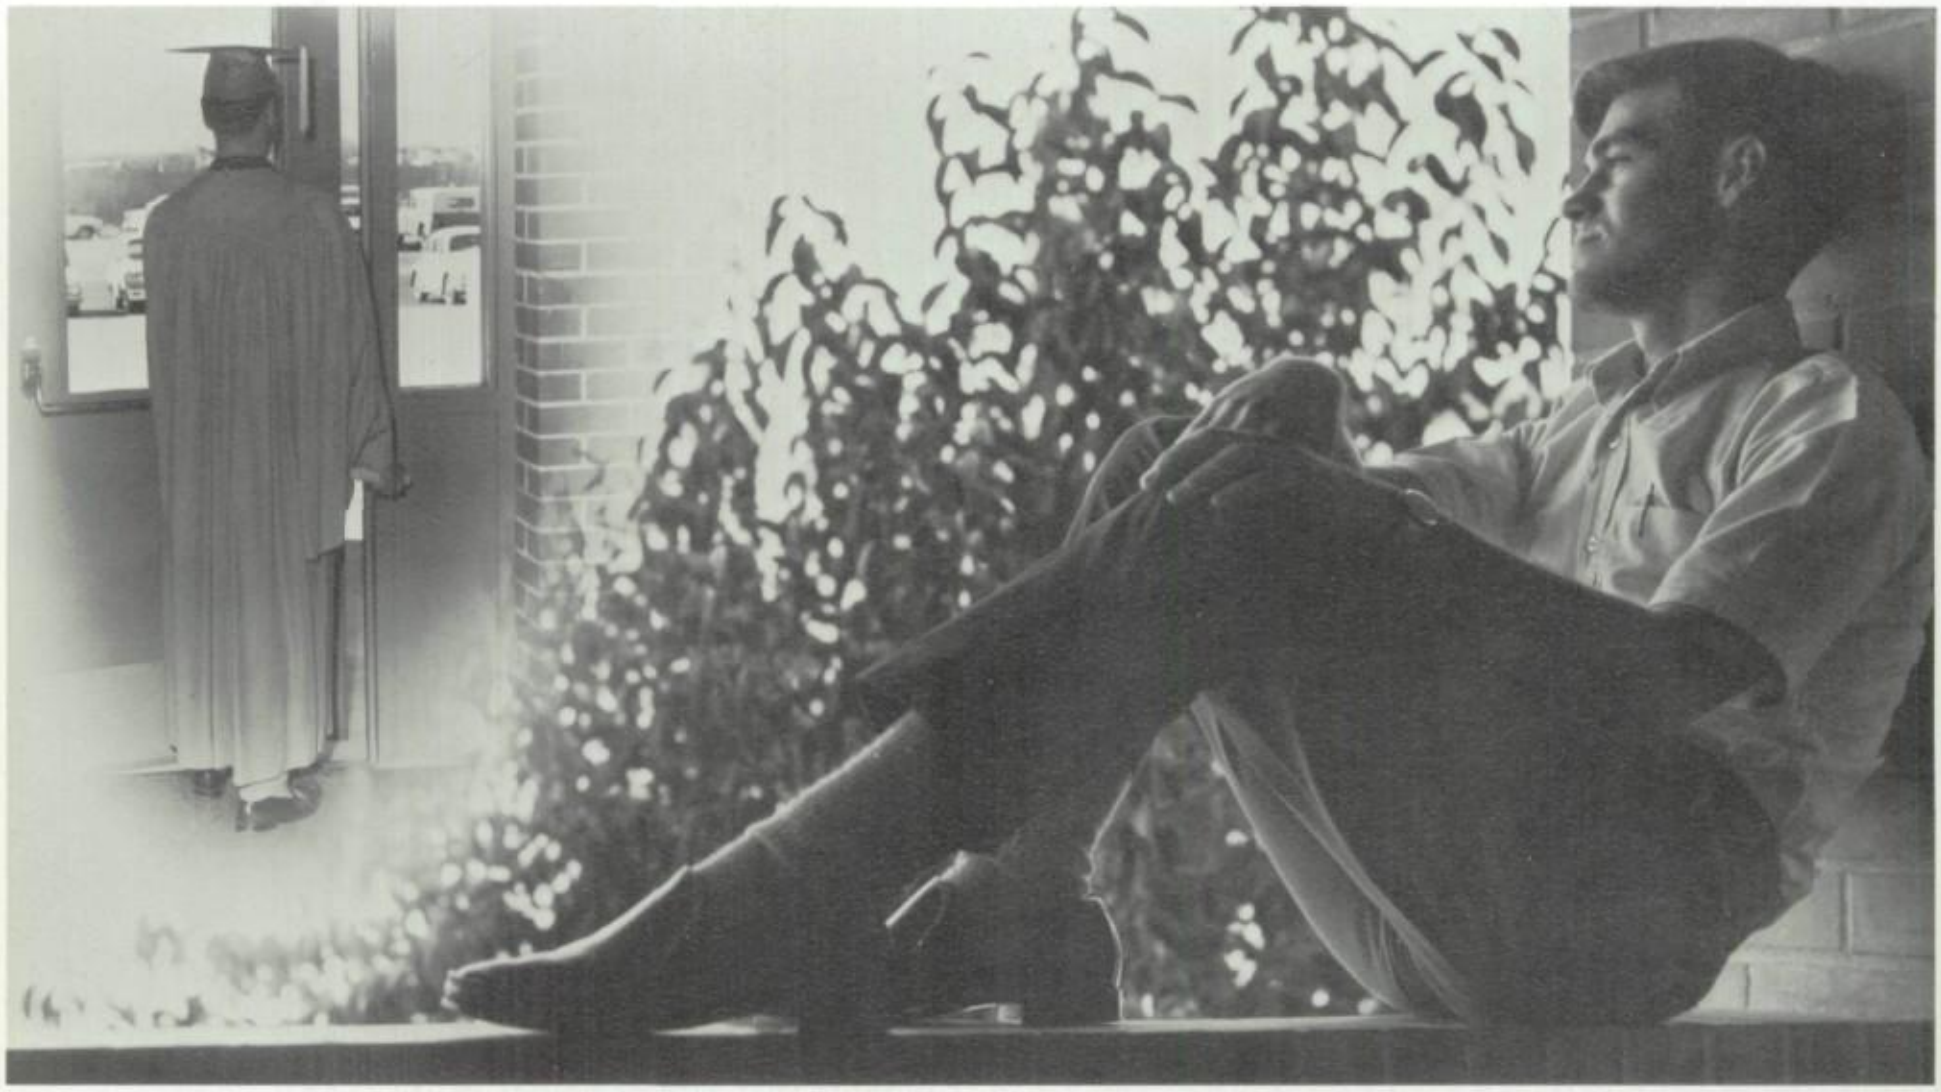
May 16 and 18 marked the nights that the choral department presented "Moonlight Melodies," an annual presentation.

JUNE marked the close of another year. Senior Day began the activity calender and the annual yearbook signing party followed with the arrival of the Olympians.

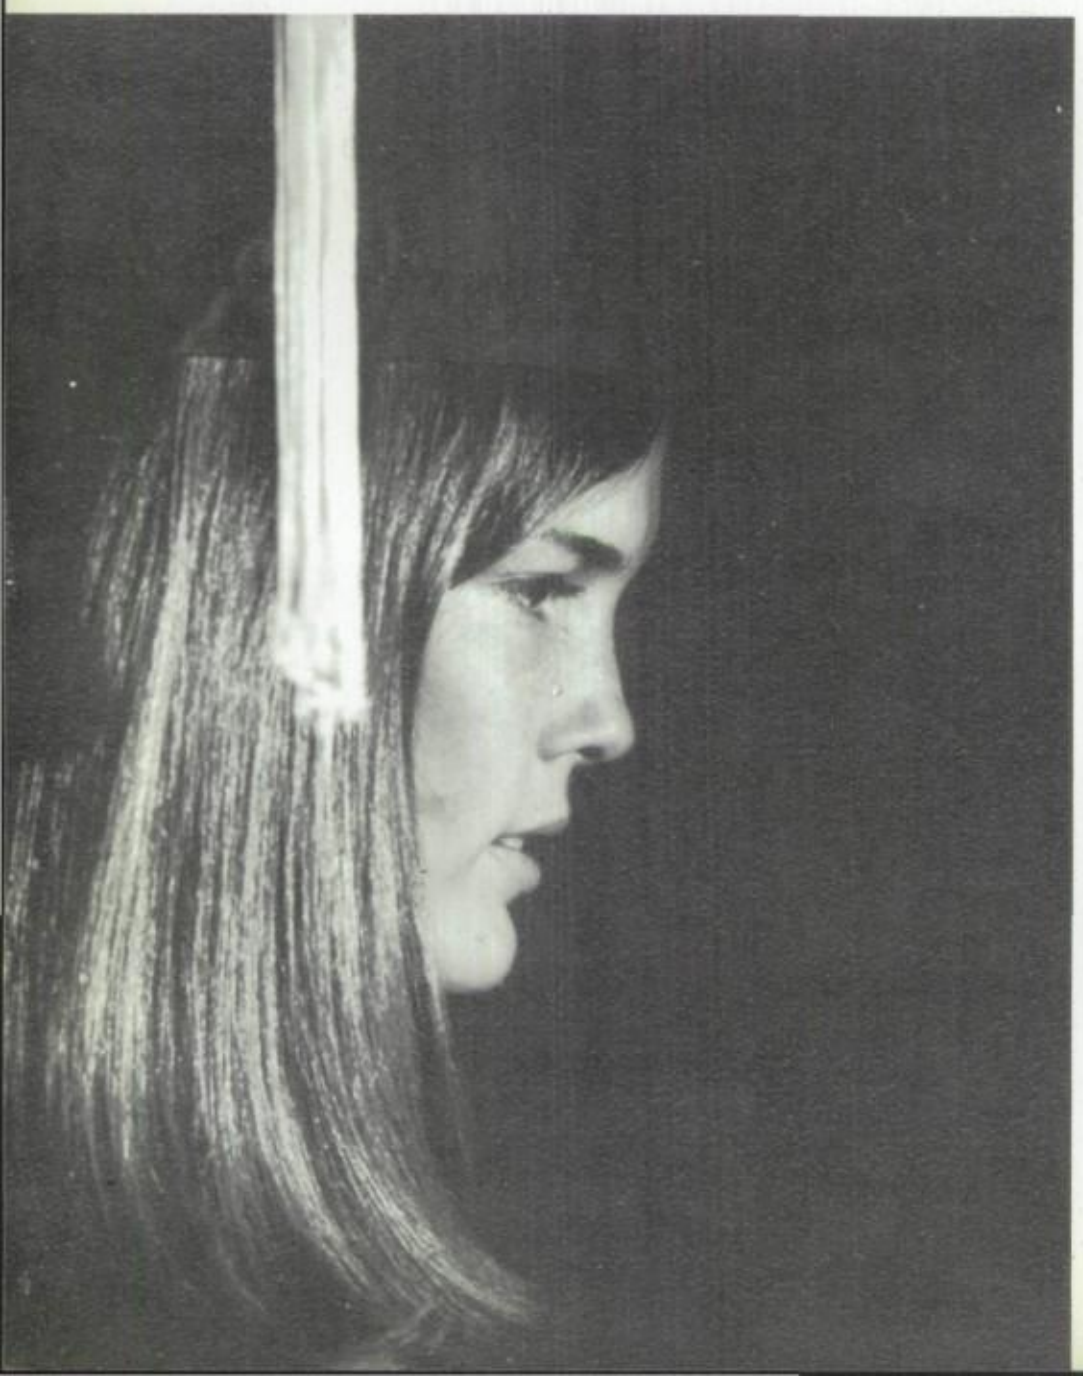
Semester exams were on June 5, 6 and 7, with Graduation exercises on the following day. With the end of another school year, students made plans for their three month summer vacation.

Mr. Burdette Bee, advisor of the Olympian Staff, and Pam Saxman, editor-in-chief, previewed the newly arrived yearbooks. They were delivered in June from the publishing firm in San Angelo, Texas.

Graduation Turned Thoughts to the Future

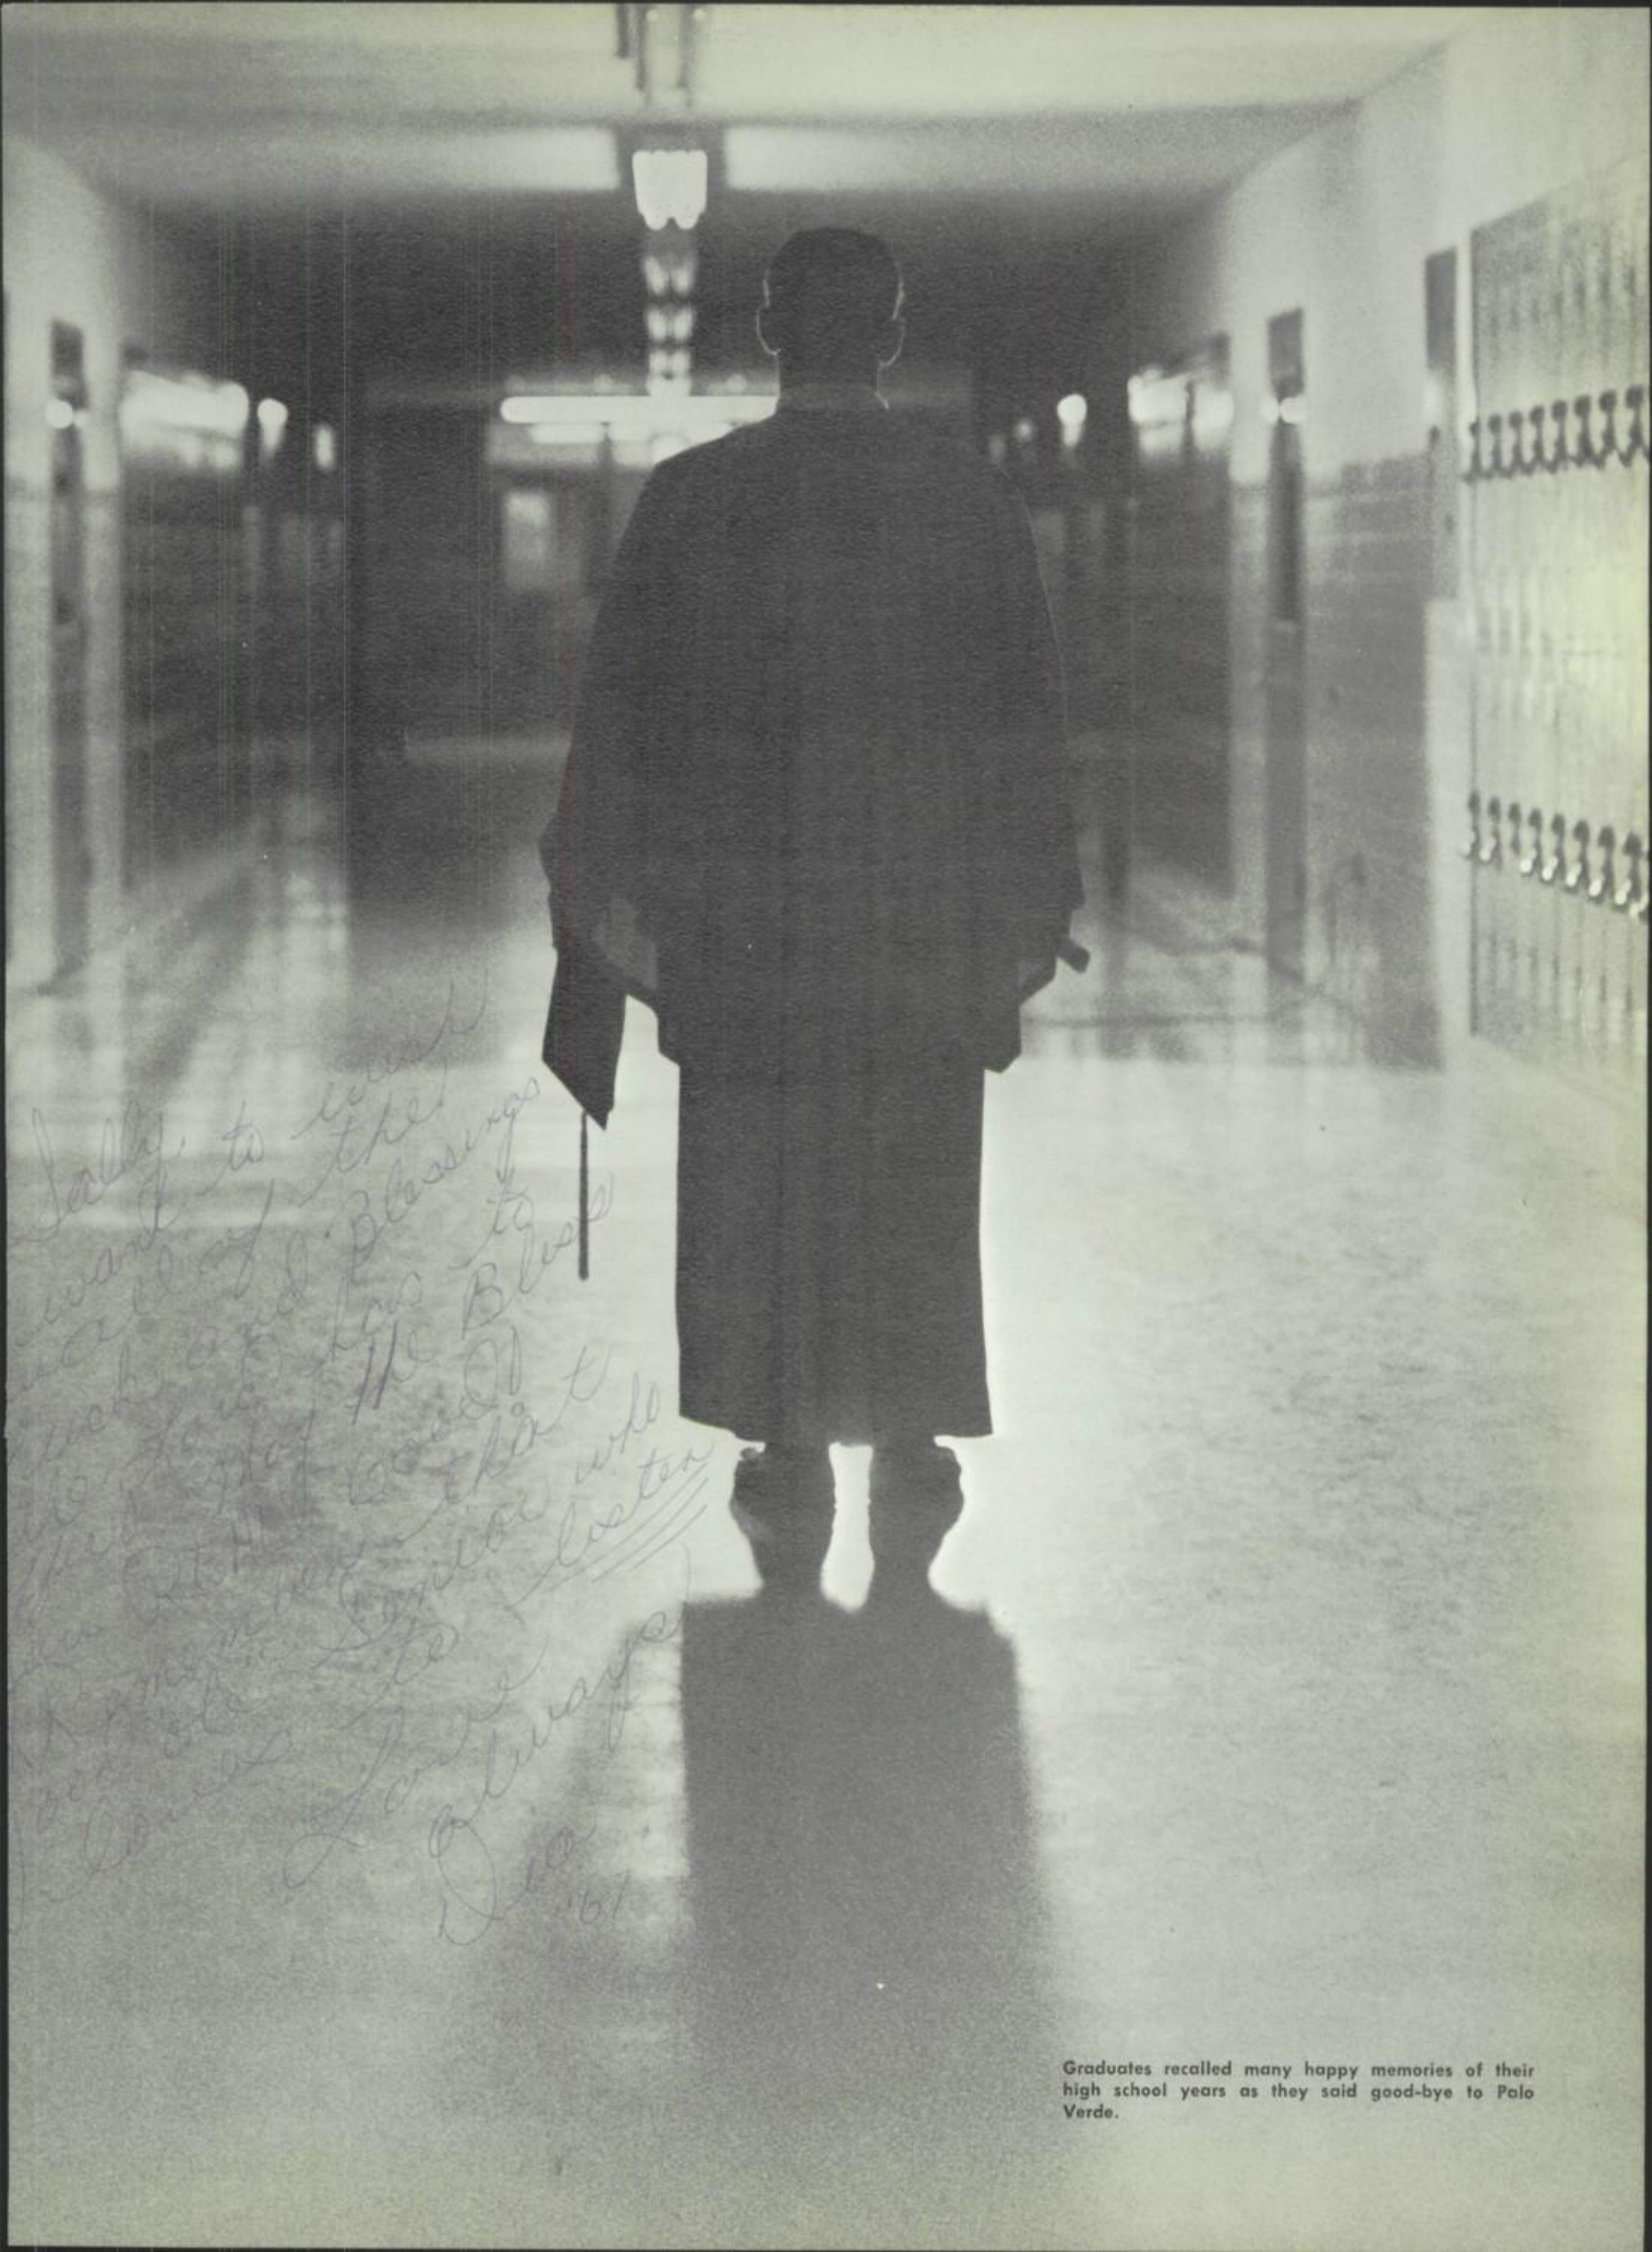


As the time for graduation drew near, many seniors visualized the first day, when four years earlier they had walked through the doors of Palo Verde to begin their high school education. They now had plans of furthering their education or going to work with opportunities opened to them for the future.



Making sure that every hair was in its proper place and steadying edgy nerves was only a part of the preparation necessary for the graduation ceremony.

Tears of joy and sorrow were felt by many seniors as graduation drew near, while thoughts of apprehension were changed to anticipation of the future.



Graduates recalled many happy memories of their high school years as they said good-bye to Palo Verde.

Thirty students were chosen to work on the 1966-1967 Olympian staff. They were selected on the basis of high grade averages and a good character.

Yearbook members were divided into individual staffs. Each staff was assigned to work on a different section of the yearbook.

Copy staff was responsible for all of the captions, headlines and copy blocks that were written. Faculty forward planned the faculty pictures and layed out the faculty portion of the book. Class pictures and the class index were arranged by the classes and indices staff. Organizations staff, sports staff and student life were responsible for their respective sections. The art and publicity staff was in charge of advertising and selling of the yearbook. The Olympian Ball, held December 16, was a major activity of the yearbook members.

All of the staffs played important parts in the production of the '67 Olympian that was distributed in June. Mr. Bee was the advisor for the staff.

School service work occupied much of the advanced photography staff's time. The Olympian and Palo Verde Post required constant assistance throughout the school year. All classes, departments and organizations needing complete coverage felt free to request the talents of photography students.

Prerequisites of graphic arts and beginning photography were necessary before a student could apply for a position on the staff.

The State Fair, held in November, awarded several Titan photographers with cash prizes and ribbons. The National Scholastic Magazine contest, co-sponsored by Eastman Kodak, offered certificates and keys of merit to winning contestants. Awards were given on the basis of originality and photographic technique. Members of the publications staff also entered the city's high schools' Photography exhibit.

Staff Published Weekly Issue of PV Post

Recording the thoughts, views and actions of the entire school was the job of the Post staff. Hard work and long hours brought out the paper that students received each week.

This year there were 29 students on the Post staff. In order for a student to be chosen for the staff, he must have taken at least one semester of journalism, have at least one teacher recommendation and be a sophomore, junior or senior. There was no set grade average required but only those students who displayed a special interest were selected.

The Post has won several honorable awards. According to the Quill and Scroll international honor rating, they had a superior newspaper. In this contest they totaled 957 points out of the 1000 possible. They were the only school staff to receive the George H. Gallup Typography award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. These awards were presented on the basis of the newspaper's extraordinary improvement, exceptional service to the school and community and their sustained leadership.

Under the guidance of Mr. Tozier, the staff was able to bring about a most effective newspaper, the Palo Verde Post.

Thad Allen, a staff member of the Palo Verde Post, conducted an interview with Mr. Al Slawson, Dean of Boys, for an article in the school newspaper.

Titan Marching Band

Palo Verde's marching band was a vital part of the school's tradition. On hand to add a spirited accent to pep assemblies, football and basketball games, the band encouraged enthusiasm from the crowd. Accompanied by the routines of songleaders and twirlers at halftime during home football games, the band strove for more entertaining and varied shows for the spectators.

Veterans Day Parade marked November. Band members were kept busy in perfecting both their marching ability and musical sound. Skills they learned were put to test on Band Day at the University of Arizona, where interstate bands competed. Titan songleaders and twirlers joined the band in its performance. Judges awarded Palo Verde a superior rating for the fifth consecutive year.

Other activities in which the band participated included the Rodeo Parade and the All-City Band Festival in February. An exchange concert between several high schools in the Phoenix area was planned for January. Selected members also took part in the Southern Arizona Instrumental Clinic and All-State Band concert. "Moonlight Melodies" was presented to the public in the spring.

Music provided students with the opportunity to express themselves while creating a definite tone. Frank Blander found satisfaction in playing trumpet.

Both classic and popular music selections were played during performances.

Auditions for all-city orchestra were held in December. The festival was in February, featuring the all-city honor orchestra. Winners from the Palo Verde district string festival were also chosen and were able to compete in the State Solo and Ensemble Contest.

On January 20 and 21, vocalists auditioned for the 1967 All-State Chorus which was held in Flagstaff. Members were chosen on the basis of their ability to read music and understand rhythm and melody by ear.

The Jubileers were selected by two teams of judges to represent Arizona, marking only the second time in history that a Tucson school has been thus honored. While at the convention, the Jubileers sang a program of contemporary music and served as the demonstration group for Dr. Jean Berger, America's foremost choral composer. In addition, the Jubileers served as Palo Verde's good will ambassadors in song in the Tucson community, performing for service, women's, golden age, and social organizations upon request. They received a Superior rating at Festivals again this year.

A new group, the Mixed Choir, was formed last year because of the large number of advanced pupils in the Vocal Music Department. These students were between the Treblettes and the more advanced Concert Choir and Jubileers in ability. The Mixed Choir participated in many concerts during the year, including Choral Classics and the Vocal Festival at the U. of A.

The Treblettes was Palo Verde's all-girl choir in which 35 girls participated. They sang at the Fall Concert early in the year, and participated in the December Christmas program and student assemblies. On May 6 at the University of Arizona, they took part in the Vocal Festival. Later in May, the Treblettes performed at the spring concert, "Moonlight Melodies," along with the orchestra.

Under the direction of Mr. William Iveson, the Mixed Choir performed during afternoon assemblies on October 25. Odaline Martinez accompanied the group.

Students of Theatre

Students who actively participated in drama and stage productions were given the opportunity to join the National Thespian Society. This organization was designed to bring together outstanding people from all phases of the theatre.

Points were given on the basis of how many hours of work were spent in some part of the theatre. Such things as acting, directing, stage managing and stage design were considered. Students were also required to have taken either dramatic arts or stagecraft. It took at least two years to earn the ten point minimum. In the spring of the second year they were then eligible for initiation. Pins were awarded to seniors at graduation.

As a club, the Thespians performed in a spring program. They also took part in the various productions of the advanced drama classes. Guest speakers were invited to the meetings, and members traveled to other high schools to view their drama productions.

Grace, rhythm and imagination were utilized as Capricians danced in coordination with their music.

Capricians Developed Graceful Techniques

Thirteen girls were chosen to be in Capricians, an advanced modern dance class. They were selected on the basis of their ability to improvise to a piece of music and on their choreographic talent. Many of the girls in Capricians had previously taken beginning and intermediate dance. Try-outs for this group were held during the spring.

Using body movement in an artistic way to communicate an idea or to achieve an effect was the essence of modern dance. Hours of practice were required to develop the grace and rhythm necessary for the Capricians.

On November 19 the Capricians attended classes on modern dance at Tempe.

Capricians experimented with different dance forms in order to create a mood or express themselves.

Songleaders Entertained Attentive Audience

Titan songleaders often fashioned various formations as part of their half-time or pre-game routines.

By outlining the letters PV, they helped to inspire school pride while entertaining the crowd.

Dressed in traditional gold and blue uniforms, the songleaders provided entertainment for the crowds at the football and basketball games. They also helped to promote school spirit and enthusiasm among the students by leading "Stand Up and Cheer" and the "Gold and Blue Pep Song" at the seasonal pep assemblies.

Long hours of work were put into the perfection of each routine. The girls were required to make up and learn a new dance each week. Two-hour classes were held each day to practice them.

Along with game entertainment and pep assemblies, the songleaders participated in the Rodeo parade, Christmas parade and Band Day.

Twenty-four girls were selected to be on the pep squad. These girls were chosen on the basis of their ability to do the school song, head-high kicks and a routine organized by the graduating songleaders.

Varsity Cheerleaders Led Spirited Crowd

Varsity cheerleader Karen Shields watched apprehensively as the Titan team fought for a first down.

At the first pep assembly, Stephanie Smith led students in the cheer "Freshmen, are you with us?"

Encouraging spirit and giving Titan teams a will to win was the job of twelve girls who filled the positions of varsity cheerleaders. They helped to maintain good sportsmanship and were a major symbol of school pep.

Cheerleaders participated in all conference football games and split into units of six for basketball games. The girls painted run-throughs for each game and led the crowd in spirit-boosting cheers at pep assemblies.

Tryouts for varsity cheerleading were held in the spring and over two hundred girls participated. Graduating members of the squad taught them three traditional cheers. The movements to a fourth cheer were required of the contestants. After a three-week practice period, the cheerleaders were chosen on the basis of their performance.

In order to insure Palo Verde of the best squad possible, competition was keen and tryouts were difficult.

Songleaders Nancy Givens and Jo Wilde watched with varsity cheerleader Shirley Breazeale at an anxious moment. The Titans were within a few yards of scoring a touchdown against the Amphi Panthers. Cries of "Touchdown, Titans, touchdown!" were heard as the team scored their touchdown.

Band Day at the University of Arizona was a major event in which twirlers participated. Fire batons and flag batons were included in different routines used throughout the year.

Junior varsity cheerleaders supported the JV football and basketball teams. Out of two hundred girls that tried out for these positions last spring, a select eight were chosen. One of the qualifications was to have and maintain a 2.5 or better grade average. They were judged on a point system and scored on their ability and personality.

Four students were chosen in early October to represent Palo Verde as mike boys. Besides aiding the cheerleaders at the microphone during football season, they added a masculine touch to the game. The boys took the responsibility of putting the run-throughs up and proved a valuable asset to the school.

Judo Club Taught Art of Unarmed Defense

An average of 30 students participated in the weekly activities of Judo Club. Although judo was realized as a sport, its main use was for unarmed self defense.

Each Monday night the judo instructor, Glen Sumner, went over the basic techniques of the sport. He stressed the importance of balance, strategy and skill. The object of the sport was to get your opponent off balance in order to trip, throw or hold him.

Judo was not only a male sport. Approximately one-third of the club members were girls. They demonstrated the most balance and coordination.

On February 4, members of the Judo Club participated in a state competition held in Phoenix. This was the first of several state and local meets held during the year.

Gymnastics, Badminton Formed New Clubs

Linda Wilson was one of many girls who participated in advanced badminton. Practice matches were held during class to prepare for competition.

Gymnastics Club was a popular extra-curricular activity for many interested girls. Their goal was to try to establish a knowledge of what students were physically able to accomplish.

Many pieces of equipment were used in gymnastics. A variety of important skills were conducted on the trampoline, uneven parallel bars, balance beam and horse. Free-ex and tumbling were also favorite events.

The girls' gymnastics team was picked from students belonging to the club. These selected girls practiced and perfected their skills. They met at Palo Verde for the city meet between all Tucson District High Schools on April 29. In May, the state contest was held at Rincon. Team members strove for the "All Around Award" which was presented for good techniques on the equipment.

Badminton Club was a new organization formed for interested girls under the direction of Miss Geneva Fleshman. The varsity team consisted of seniors Glenda Brown and Connie Duenas, juniors Brenda Gutierrez and Elaine Krueger, and sophomore Laureen Malas. Members were required to know the basic strokes which include the serve, smash, drives, drop shots and overhead clear. Advanced players concentrated on hairpin net shots and attempted to improve their footwork, since speed is an essential in this fast-moving game. In badminton, the player who makes the fewest mistakes wins.

January 30 marked the start of a schedule of matches and the season ended late in March. On April 1, six chosen members took part in the University of Arizona tournament. Three delegates were sent to the state tournament at Arizona State University in Tempe later in the month.

The only prerequisite was marketing. This class gave instruction in basic business principles. In co-op they learned merchandising techniques which could be applied on their jobs.

During National DECA Week the club sold novelties in the cafeteria, such as stuffed animals, dolls and flowers. They also distributed pamphlets to the student body. Newspaper coverage, radio spots and display windows in several stores helped publicize their purpose.

Twenty-three members of the club entered contests at the State Leadership Conference held March 11-12. The president of Palo Verde's chapter, Cindy Werner, held the position of vice-president of Arizona State DECA.

They played each team an equal number of times, regardless of age division. Sponsoring the club were advisors Mr. Bush and Mr. Traister.

Ski Club Sponsored Several New Projects

As advisor to the Ski Club, Mr. Silverburg strove to promote more interest and enthusiasm in the sport. This was done through various new projects that were attempted.

First of these projects was the formation of an inter-school Ski Club Council. This group consisted of the officers and advisors from all the high school clubs in Tucson. Its main purpose was to form better response to the sport and to unite the schools in the activities that it provided.

Another new project was to start inter-school competition. The first ski meet was held between Rincon, Catalina and Palo Verde. The second was an open meet in which all of the schools had an opportunity to participate.

Various guest speakers spoke at club meetings. These included people from the Ski Patrol and several ski resorts around the state.

Before traveling to Mt. Lemmon for skiing, club members participated in dry-land sessions to develop and improve basic techniques. These meetings especially helped beginning students.

Members of the Ski Club dried off in front of a fire at one of the local lodges while discussing experiences which occurred. Hot chocolate or coffee helped warm them up after an afternoon of skiing.

Titan Gridders Equaled Previous Season Record

Finishing with a division record of 3-5 and an overall 4-5-1 record, the Titans placed seventh in AA-4 competition. The team was led by the guidance of head coach Van Howe, line coach Richard Palm and backfield coach Lynn Kanouse.

Outgaining their opponents for the year, 2838 yards to 2762, the Titans moved inside their foe's 20-yard line twice more than their opponents threatened their own goal line. But they were able to gain victories only over Salpointe, Amphi, Central and Rincon, while losing to Douglas, Pueblo, Sunnyside, Catalina and Tucson and tying Alhambra.

Halfback Don Anton was the individual star, gaining 736 yards on 139 carries for a 5.3 average. Fullback Tom Binnion ran for 474 yards on 114 carries for a 4.1 average. Jeff Lovin was the leading passer, completing 38 of 71 passes for 526 yards. His 70-yard pass play to Dan Johnson at Alhambra was the longest offensive gain of the season for the Titans. Harry Lodge's 96-yard interception return was the longest touchdown of the season.

Jay McClure was honored for his defensive and offensive work throughout the season by being named to the Tucson Football Coaches Association All-City team as a first team defensive guard and a second team offensive center. Also named to the second offensive team was Don Anton, a 165-pound halfback. Harry Lodge was given a place on the defensive team as a defensive halfback. Gaining honorable mention on the defensive team were backs Ron Payne and Mike Schwanenberger and end Mike Killebrew. Tom Binnion was an honorable mention back on offense.

Palo Verde gained 231 yards total offense and completed six passes for 122 yards as compared to Douglas' nine passes for 92 yards. In the first half of the game Douglas made its only touchdown and the Titans prevented two touchdowns. A safety accounted for Palo Verde's only tally in the second period. Jeff Lovin provided most of the offensive thrust for the Titans, passing for 95 yards.

In the first home game of the season, the Pueblo Warriors defeated the Titans 28-24 in an AA-4 conference game. Tom Binnion and Don Anton received 17 and 22-yard passes from Jeff Lovin to score two touchdowns in the first quarter. In the third quarter Lovin passed 24 yards to Bill Greer for a third touchdown. In the last five minutes of the game Dan Johnson scored Palo Verde's final touchdown. The Titans passed 209 yards to Pueblo's 175. Five thousand spectators watched the Titans defeat Salpointe 27-13 in Palo Verde's homecoming game. The Titan offense, directed by Jeff Lovin, made touchdown drives of 64 and 90 yards, with Don Anton scoring on runs of eight and six yards. Mike Schwanenberger rushed 37 yards for the Titans' first touchdown. The highlight of the night was a 96-yard interception run by Junior Harry Lodge for a touchdown. It was the longest interception run in Palo Verde's history. The Titans gained 252 yards rushing compared to Salpointe's 43.

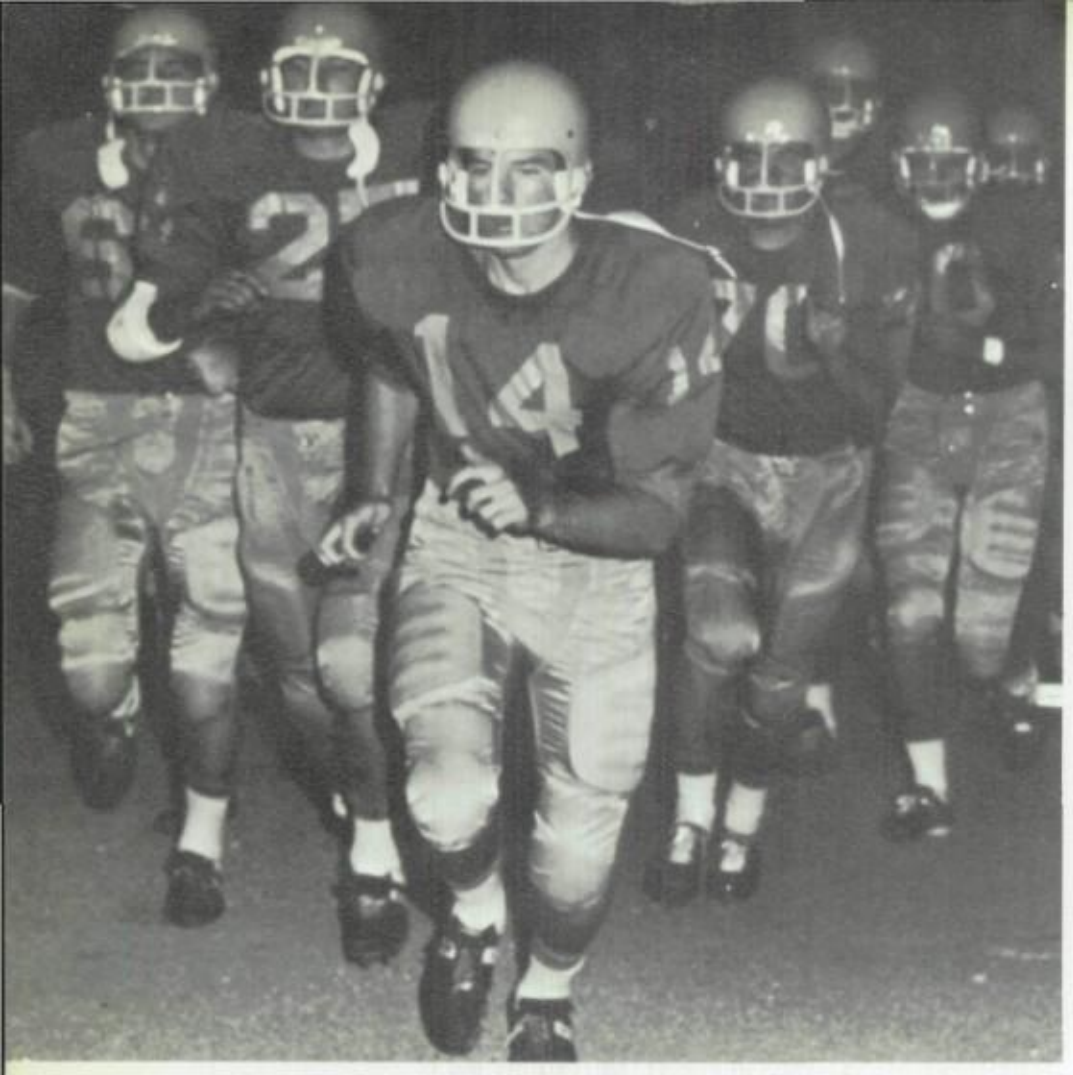
A strong defensive playing unit was praiseworthy of the Titans as they were defeated by the Sunnyside Blue Devils, 21-0. Despite the margin in score, Palo Verde stopped the Blue Devils inside their own ten yard line three times. Palo Verde penetrated deep into Sunnyside territory as the Titans moved to the ten yard line during the first quarter. Ron Payne intercepted a pass in the first half of the game for one of seven first downs. Don Anton led the Titan attack with 35 yards in 13 carries.

With luck on their side, the Titans took advantage of a fumble and a pass interception to defeat Amphi 27-7. They recovered a Panther fumble to set up Don Anton's opening touchdown on a one-yard run. Palo Verde drove 60 yards for the second touchdown scored by Gary Glasgow from the one-yard line. In the third quarter the Titans scored on a one-yard plunge by Tom Binnion. Palo Verde's final tally came with 27 seconds to go as Ron Payne intercepted an Amphi pass and traveled 75 yards for a touchdown.



Gary Glasgow led the team toward the run-through at the game against Amphi. An ear-splitting roar was heard as the Titans broke the paper.

Under the direction of Gary Glasgow (14), the team planned the play which led the Titans in their first touchdown against Amphi on Palo Verde's field.

Titans Beat Rincon 34-20 for Third Win

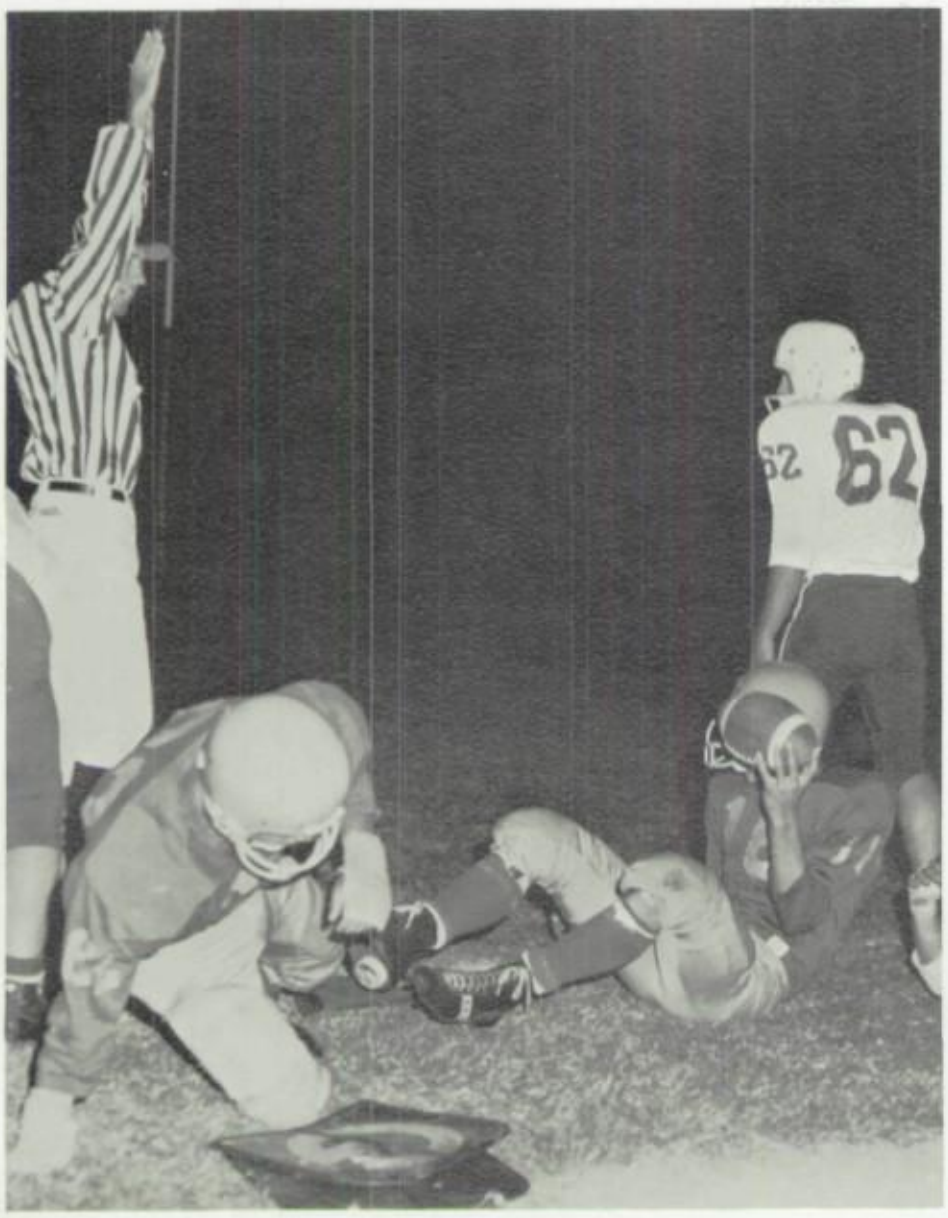
Capturing a second straight contest win, the Titans defeated the Rincon Rangers 34-20. Opening the scoring in the first quarter, Don Anton ran 24 yards for a touchdown. After a Ranger touchdown the Titans came back to score twice more on six-yard runs by Tom Binnion and Anton. The game moved fast as first Palo Verde scored then Rincon scored until the Titans tallied two in succession to win. Final tallies by the Titans were made in the last quarter on one-yard plunges by Binnion and Gary Glasgow. John Fila completed the four extra point kicks.

Outdoing the Catalina Trojans in the statistics column, Palo Verde was defeated in the AA-4 game 20-7. Palo Verde made its only touchdown in the first half, but trailed behind the Trojans throughout the game. The Titans took the kickoff and moved to the Catalina five-yard line in the same play, but were halted there. Mike Dusek's outside sprinting and Tom Binnion's inside running brought Palo Verde 254 yards rushing compared to 167 for Catalina. Palo Verde's last march ended on the Catalina two-yard line in the last quarter.

All thoughts were on the football game as Titans Bill Orinski, Mark Arneson, John Fila, Dan Harrell, Jerry Stump and Craig Ludtke rested between plays.

They were watching their teammates and giving them encouragement during the gridiron battle with the Trojans. A determined crowd kept enthusiasm high.

Varsity Closed Season With 4-5-1 Record

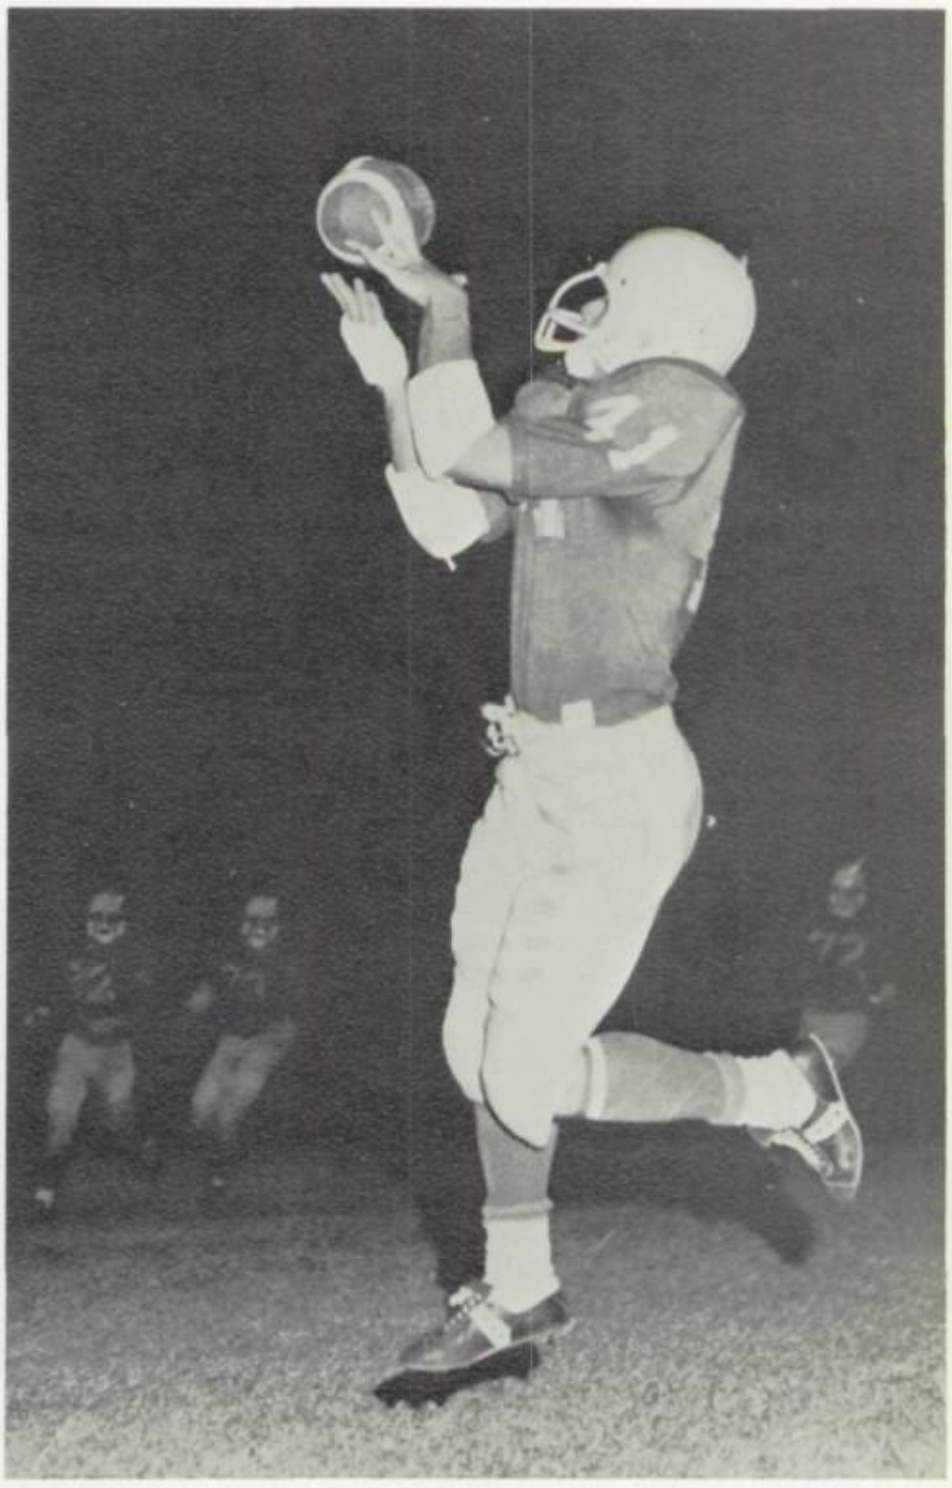


Downed just over the goal line, quarterback Mike Dusek waited as the referee called the Titans second touchdown in the game against Central.

An alert defense accounted for three touchdowns as the Titans defeated Phoenix Central 38-13. Mike Schwanenberger scored the first touchdown on a 47-yard pass interception. Mike Bingham recovered a fumble on Central's six-yard line to set up Mike Dusek's six-yard scoring run. Mark Arneson scored the following Palo Verde touchdowns on a nine-yard pass from Bingham and a 55-yard run. Don Anton picked up 107 yards in 16 carries and scored on a two-yard run. Dan Johnson scored the final tally on a 37-yard pass interception in the fourth quarter.

Class AA-4 champion Tucson High defeated Palo Verde 33-7 in a prep football game on the Badger field. Tucson High scored the first touchdown of the evening and moments later Mike Schwanenberger scored on an 80-yard punt return that would have tied the score but it was called back because of an off-sides penalty. In the second quarter Ron Payne scored Palo Verde's only touchdown of the evening on a 12-yard pass from Mike Bingham. Palo Verde ended the season with a 3-5 conference record and a 4-5-1 overall record.

Coaches: Dick Palm; Van Howe, head; Lynn Kanouse.



In the final home game against Phoenix Central, senior Mike Schwanenberger intercepted a Bobcat pass and ran 47 yards for Palo Verde's first touchdown.

COACH
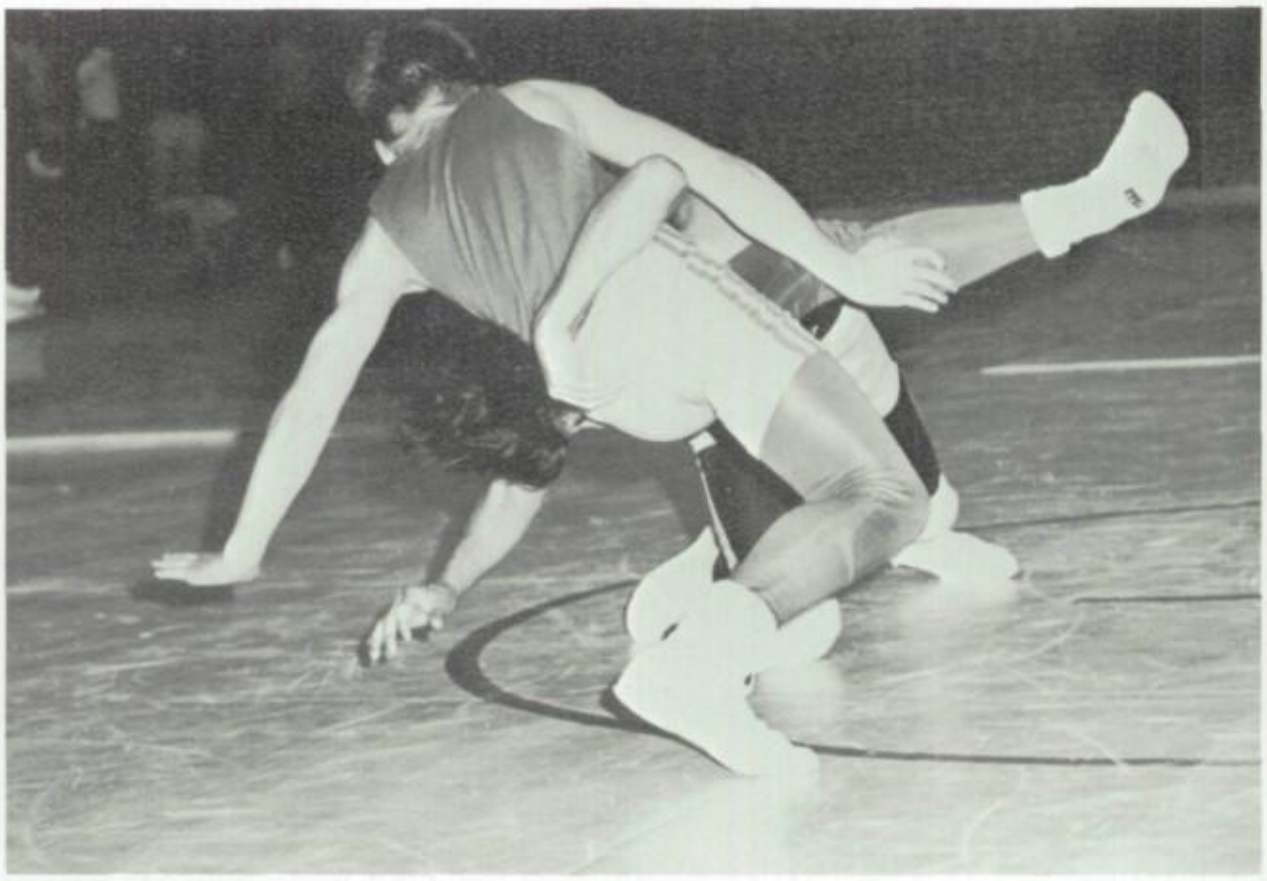
Bill Ismay



In the December 9 wrestling match against Pueblo in the Warriors gym, Palo Verde was defeated by a final score of 26-20. A Pueblo grappler tried to defeat his opponent by using the "take down" hold.

Coached by Mr. Bill Ismay, the varsity wrestling squad ended their season with a 5-4-1 over-all record, a fourth place finish in the AA-4 divisional meet and seventh place in the state championships. Carlos Tellez, senior, won a first place in both divisional and state meets. Jim Thompson, senior, and Clark Canright, junior, also won first places in the divisional meet with junior Allen Lowe finishing third and sophomore Gary Lovato and senior Bob Mitchell finishing fourth. In the state meet Canright won third place and Thompson finished fourth.

Coach William Ismay led the junior varsity wrestling team to a good season in 1967. The squad had a record of 5 wins and 5 losses. Wins were recorded in meets against South Mountain, North Phoenix, Tucson High, Salpointe and Amphi. Top players of the season were Tom Stoops, Gary Lavato, John Bell, Roy Dwiggins and Pete Jorgenson. Mr. Ismay said that these boys showed good wrestling characteristics and had fine possibilities for the varsity team next year. Jim Crim managed both the varsity and junior varsity teams during the wrestling season.

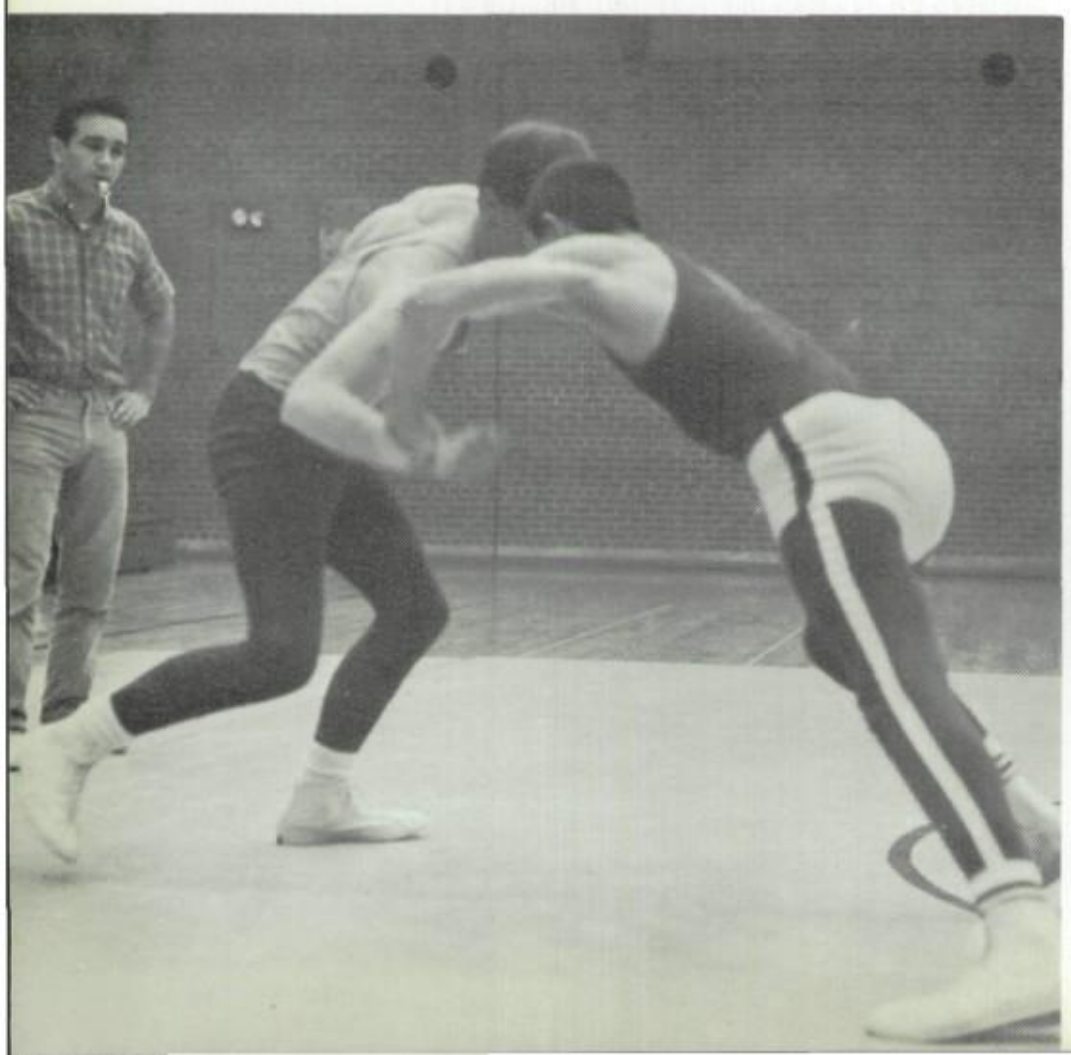
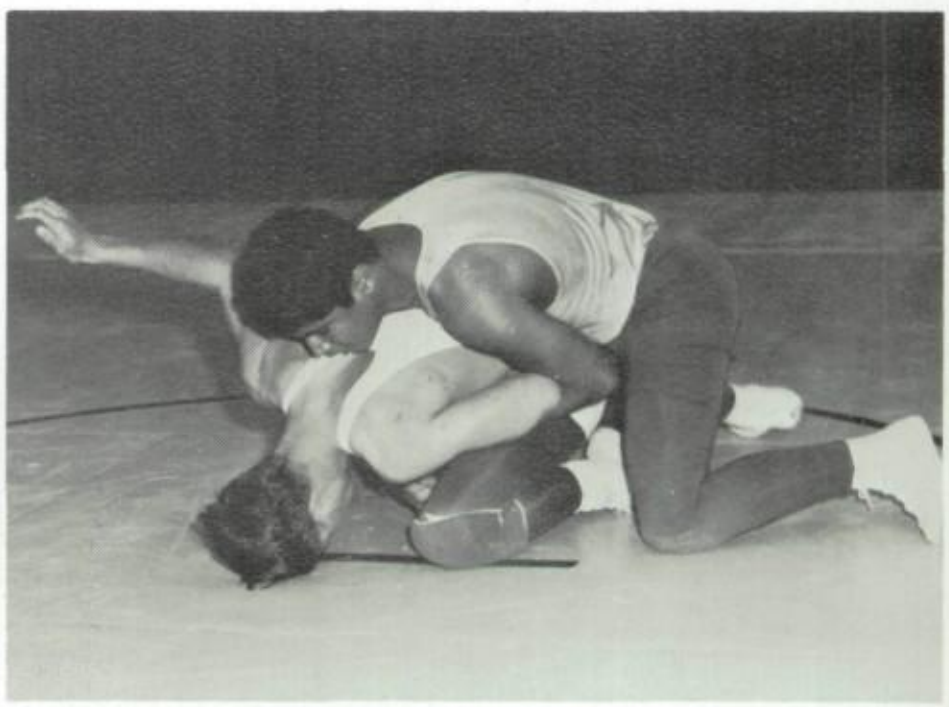
Frosh Matmen Learned Better Techniques

Under the coaching of Edward Baron, the freshman wrestling team equalled their previous year's record of seven wins and one loss. The team was victorious in games against Salpointe, Tucson, Amphi, Sunnyside, Catalina, Flowing Wells and Rincon. Through many hours of practice, the members of the squad developed individual wrestling skills. Most of the frosh wrestlers were awarded their class letter. The forty wrestlers who finished the season showed potential for the junior varsity and varsity teams in coming years.

COACH
Ed Baron

Another victory was added by the freshman wrestling team to their record of seven wins and one loss. Amphi was defeated 32-19 in a match on January 9.





Frosh president, Bill Ramos, moved to pin down his opponent from Flowing Wells. The Palo Verde-Flowing Wells frosh match took place on January 28.

Varsity Netters Opened Season With Wins

With a midseason record of 4-3 the 1967 varsity tennis team had expectations of finishing with an outstanding season record. "Only Catalina and Rincon had a chance to beat the Titans or finish ahead of them in the divisional race," stated Coach Melvin Karrle. He felt the team was the strongest ever at Palo Verde. Holding the top eight positions and judged equal in skill were senior captain Kevin Oleksy, senior Bruce Armstrong, juniors Jerry Jones, Hogan Smelker, Chuck Schwartzmann, Jim Skevington, Dan Turner and sophomore Mike Jones.

Varsity tennis team member Jerry Jones stepped into a forehand drive during a match with Pueblo. With the help of his win, Titans gained another victory.

Junior Hogan Smelker used a backhand stroke during a varsity tennis game against Tucson. Smelker won the only singles match at the February 14 game.

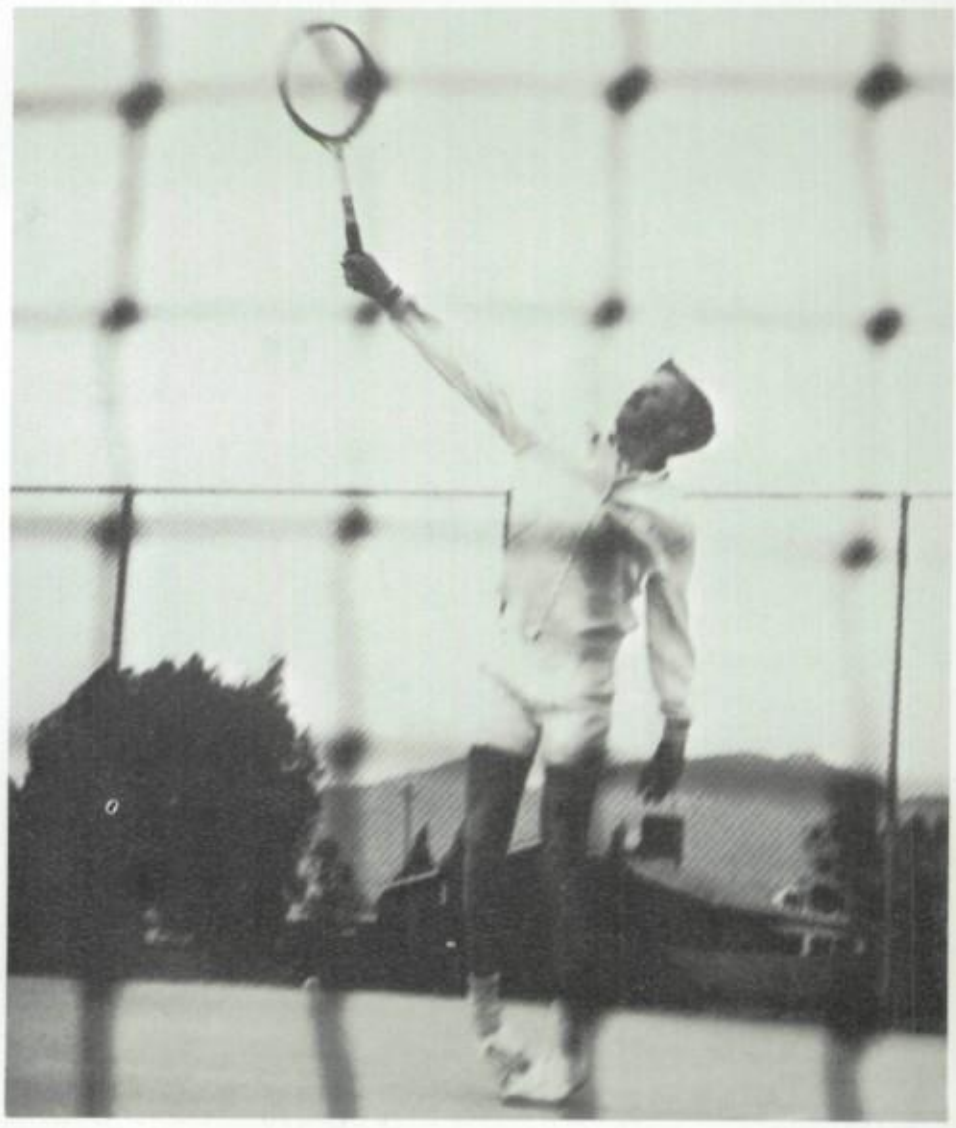
Junior Jerry Jones has been a member of the varsity tennis team for three years. He used the overhand drive in delivering a serve to an opposing player.



Jerry Jones anticipated the volley from his teammate during the game against Pueblo. He won his singles match to help boost Titans to another victory.

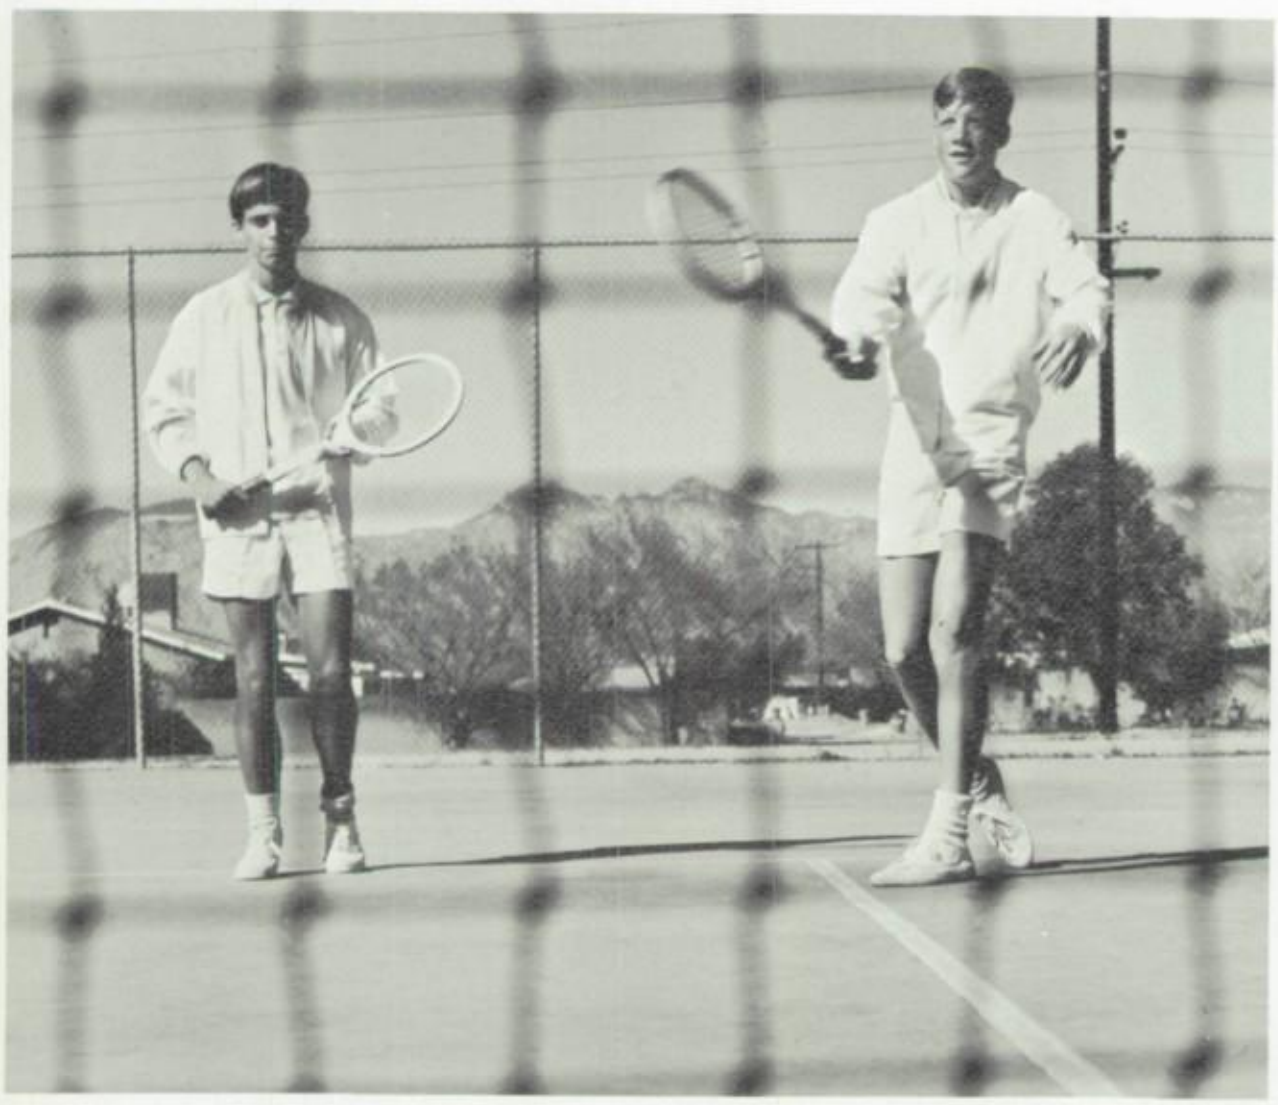
Victories were scored against Pueblo 7-0, Casa Grande 5-0 and 6-1, Tucson 4-3, Amphitheater 7-0, Catalina 6-1, and Douglas 7-0. According to Coach Melvin Karrle, "the 1967 JV team should be the division's best." Filling the top positions on the junior varsity team were Chuck Schwartzmann, junior; Dan Turner, junior; Mike Jones, sophomore; Dennis Rust, sophomore; and Mike Cutchall, junior.



Kevin Oleksy and Jerry Jones, players on the varsity tennis team, participated in a doubles match. Their first opponents came from Casa Grande for the opening game of the season on February 4.

Junior Jim Skevington delivered the opening serve to his opponent at the Pueblo game on February 7.

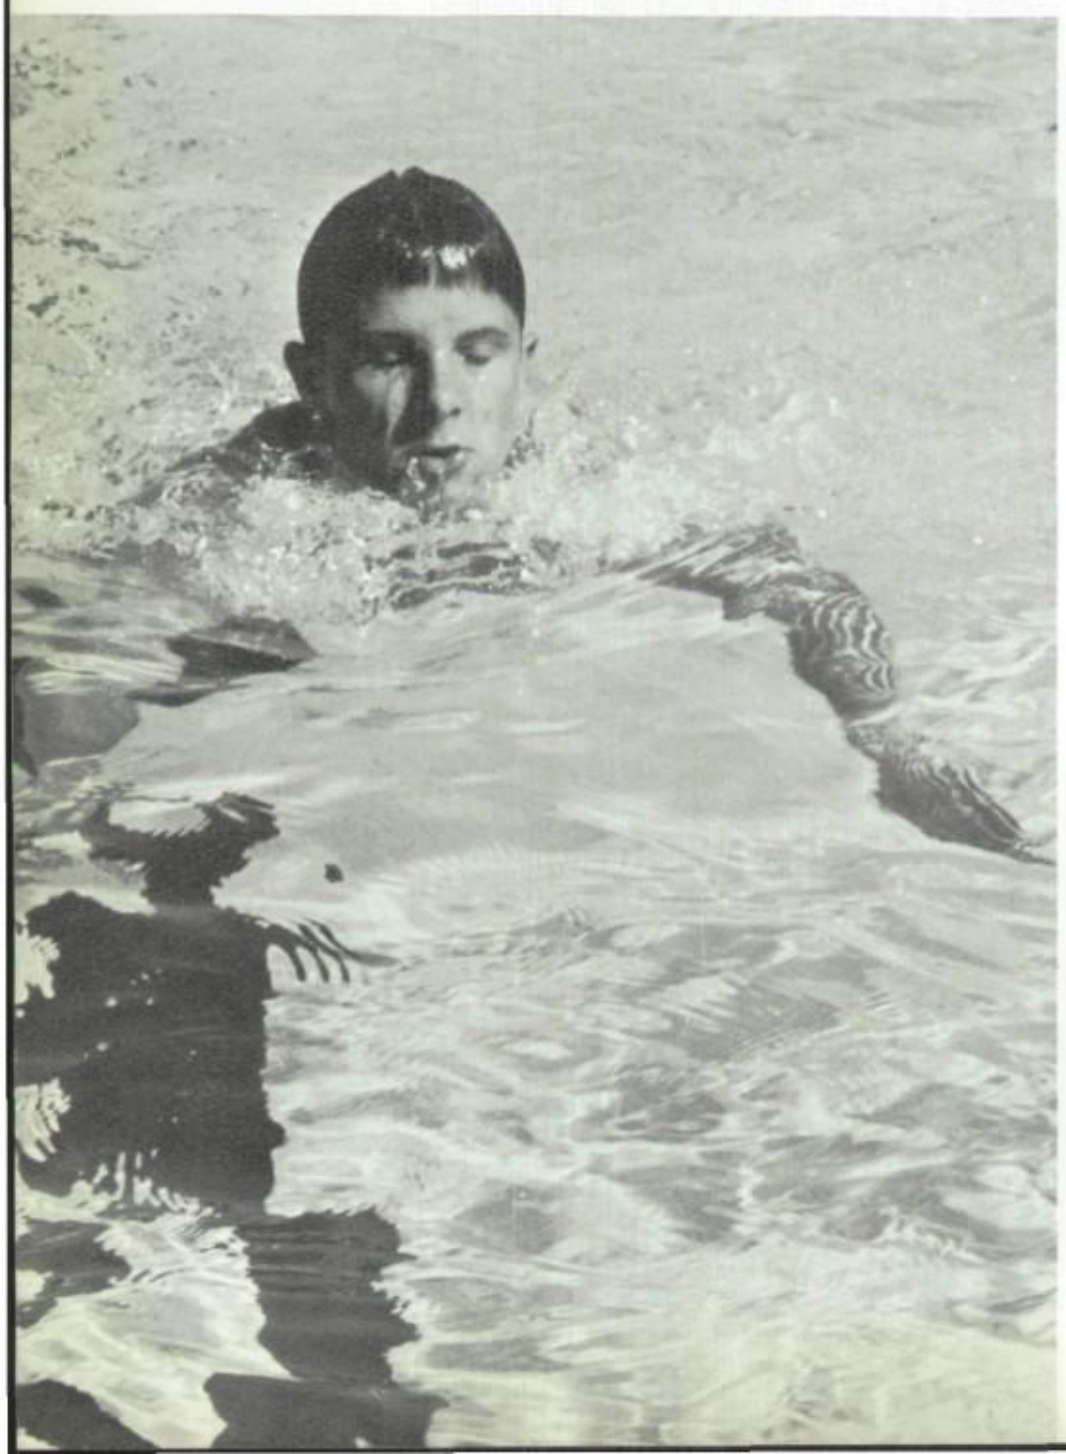
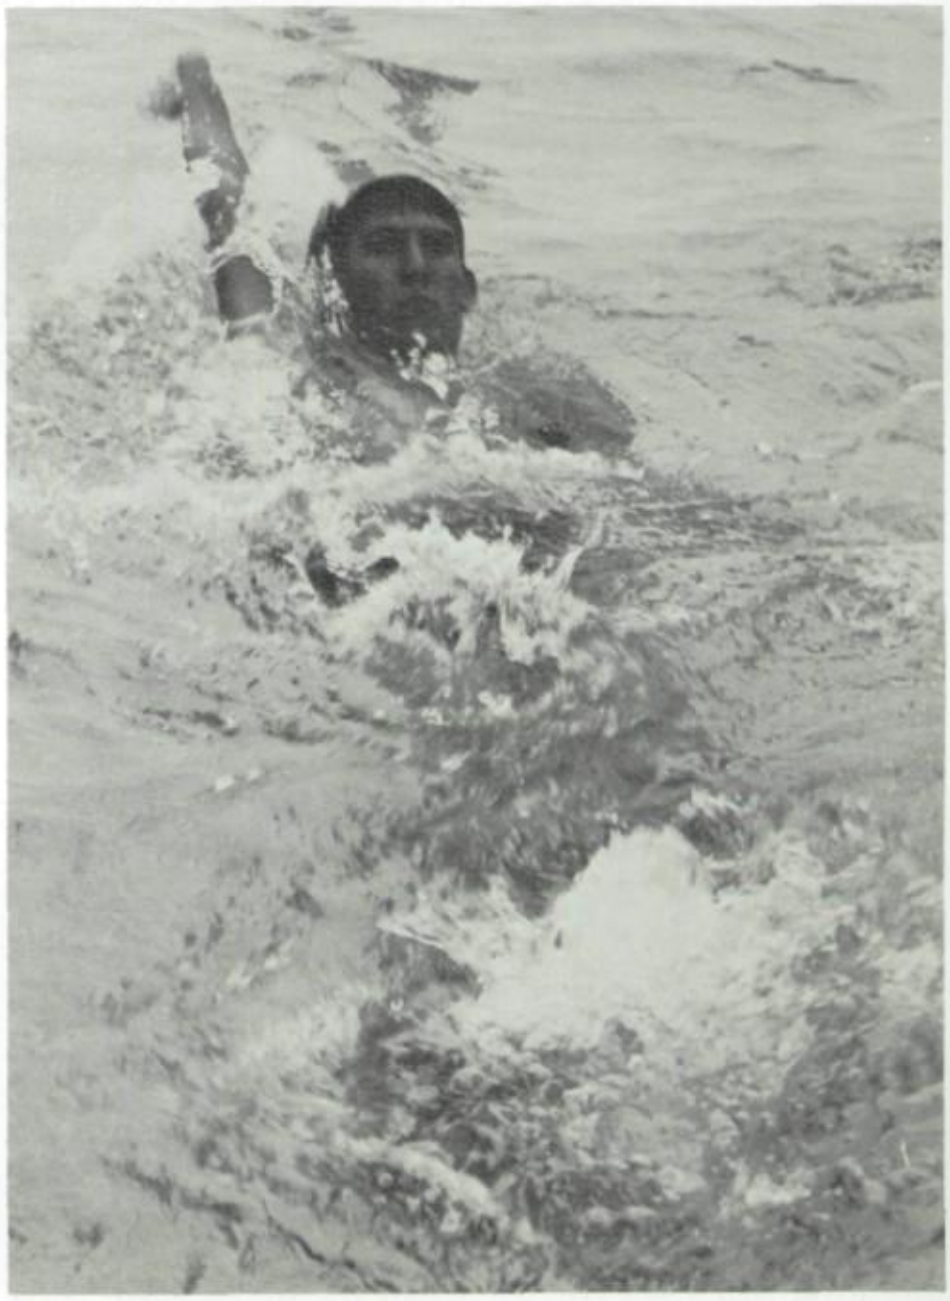
Sophomore Sherman Miller swam breaststroke across the Rolling Hills pool during a varsity swim practice. This stroke combined strength and coordination.





Dave Francisco, a member of the varsity team, practiced at Rolling Hills pool. He swam the backstroke for competition in his second year on the team.

Varsity diver Mark Fentnor plunged into the water after completing a forward half-twist. Five basic dives were required to be learned by each diver.

With only four lettermen returning from the 1966 city champion and state runner-up squad, the varsity swimming team had to rely on the experienced JV team members. According to Coach Ford, the swimmers were strongest in distances. Sophomore Peter Strong is the city's best in the 400 and 200-yard freestyle. With Ken Jacobs and Alan Thomas leading the sprints, freestyle was PV's strongest stroke. Mark Fentnor was one of the city's best divers and Scott Ullery was strongest in breaststroke and individual medley.

Alan Thomas, senior tanker, pulled toward the finish line in the freestyle competition against Pueblo. Alan was a returning letterman from last year.

JV Tankers Looked Forward to Success

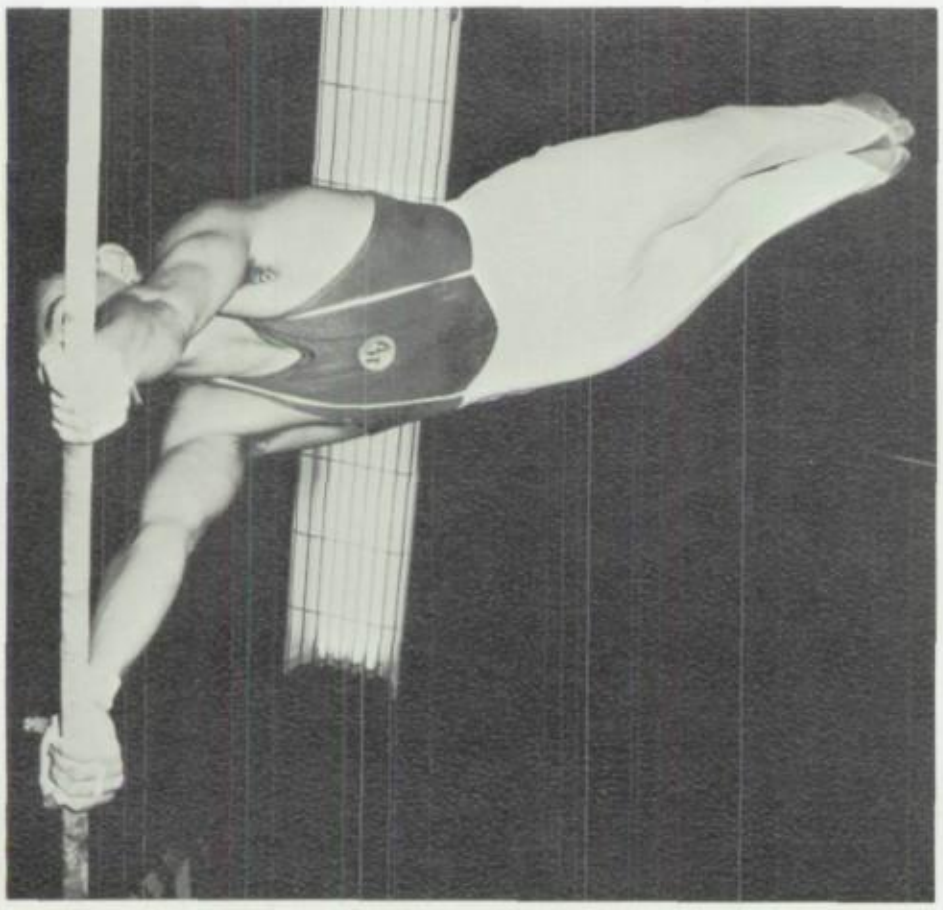
David Singer strained to get the maximum distance in his starting dive as another member of his team touched the block in a junior varsity relay race.

Under the direction of Coach Bob Ford the junior varsity swimming team anticipated bettering last year's record of three wins and two losses. The result of their first meet against Camelback was a tie. Leading the team in the 100-yard freestyle was Larry Epstein with a time of 59.7 seconds. Leading in the butterfly was Dave Singer with a time of one minute twelve seconds. In the 100-yard backstroke Sam Young finished in one minute fifteen seconds. With a top time of one minute twenty-two seconds, Jeff Wooten was lead stroker in the breaststroke.

Junior Scott Ullery demonstrated speed and endurance when swimming the 100-yard butterfly, one of the most difficult strokes in individual competition.

Gymnasts Displayed Strength, Coordination

Led by versatile all-around gymnasts, the 1967 team attempted to improve their previous second place city finish and third place state finish. Jon Aitken finished first in the high bar competition in the city championships last year. Seniors Mike Berry and Mike Ward and sophomore Aitken competed in the all-around. Roger Ross and Bill Acorn were top competitors on the rings and parallel bars while Mitch Parker and Larry Orenduff were top competitors in the side horse. Bill Strodtbeck competed in floor exercise. Junior Rick Franz worked on the trampoline.



To varsity gymnast Mike Ward, coordinating movements and concentration were factors needed to skillfully execute a forward giant swing on the high bar.

Varsity gymnast Rick Franz smoothly performed a back three-quarters on the trampoline in the boys' gym as part of his routine for upcoming tournaments.

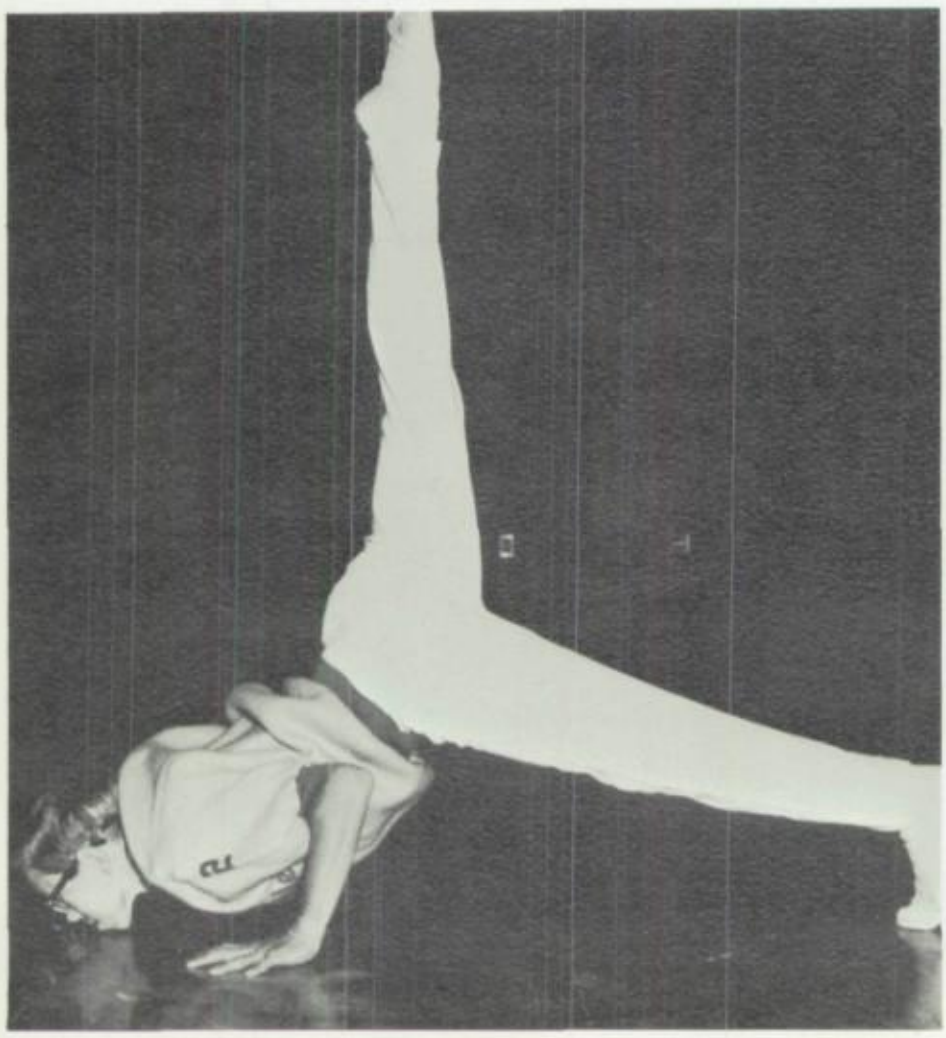
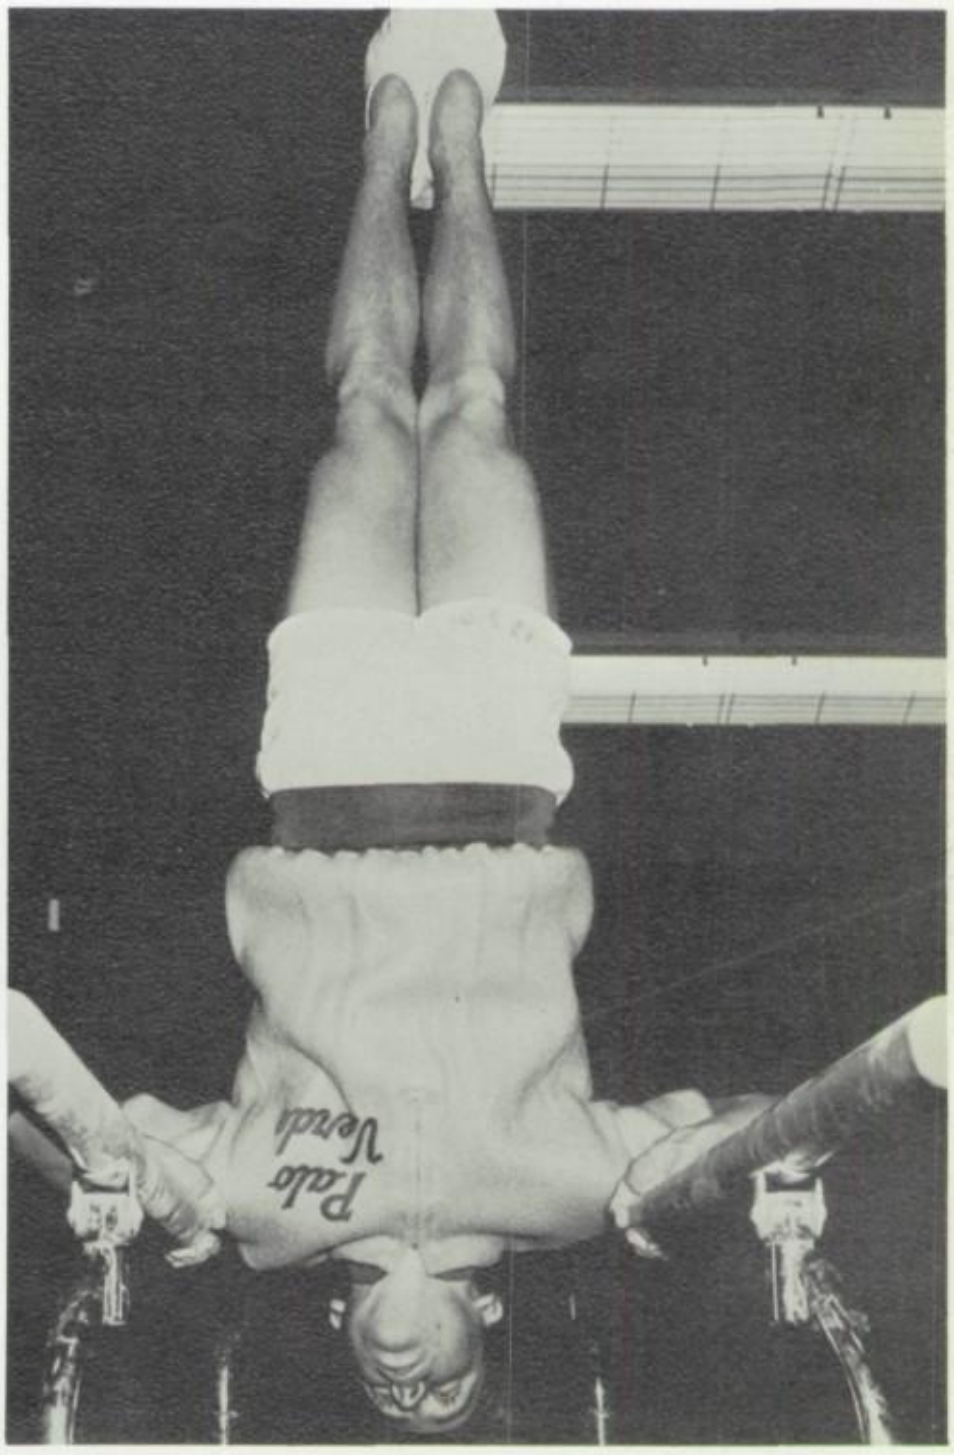
Freshman Gymnasts Mastered New Skills

Freshman gymnastics for the 1967 school term was headed by Glen Harcus. With the help of Mr. Harcus, the squad defeated many opponents. The top man in tumbling was James Peck, with Ken Perry on the parallel bars and Steve Robinson and Dirk Thomas top men on the rings. Gary Phillips was the leading man in floor exercises and on the trampoline, while Bart Gavlak topped the high bar. The freshmen won their first meet by defeating Rincon.

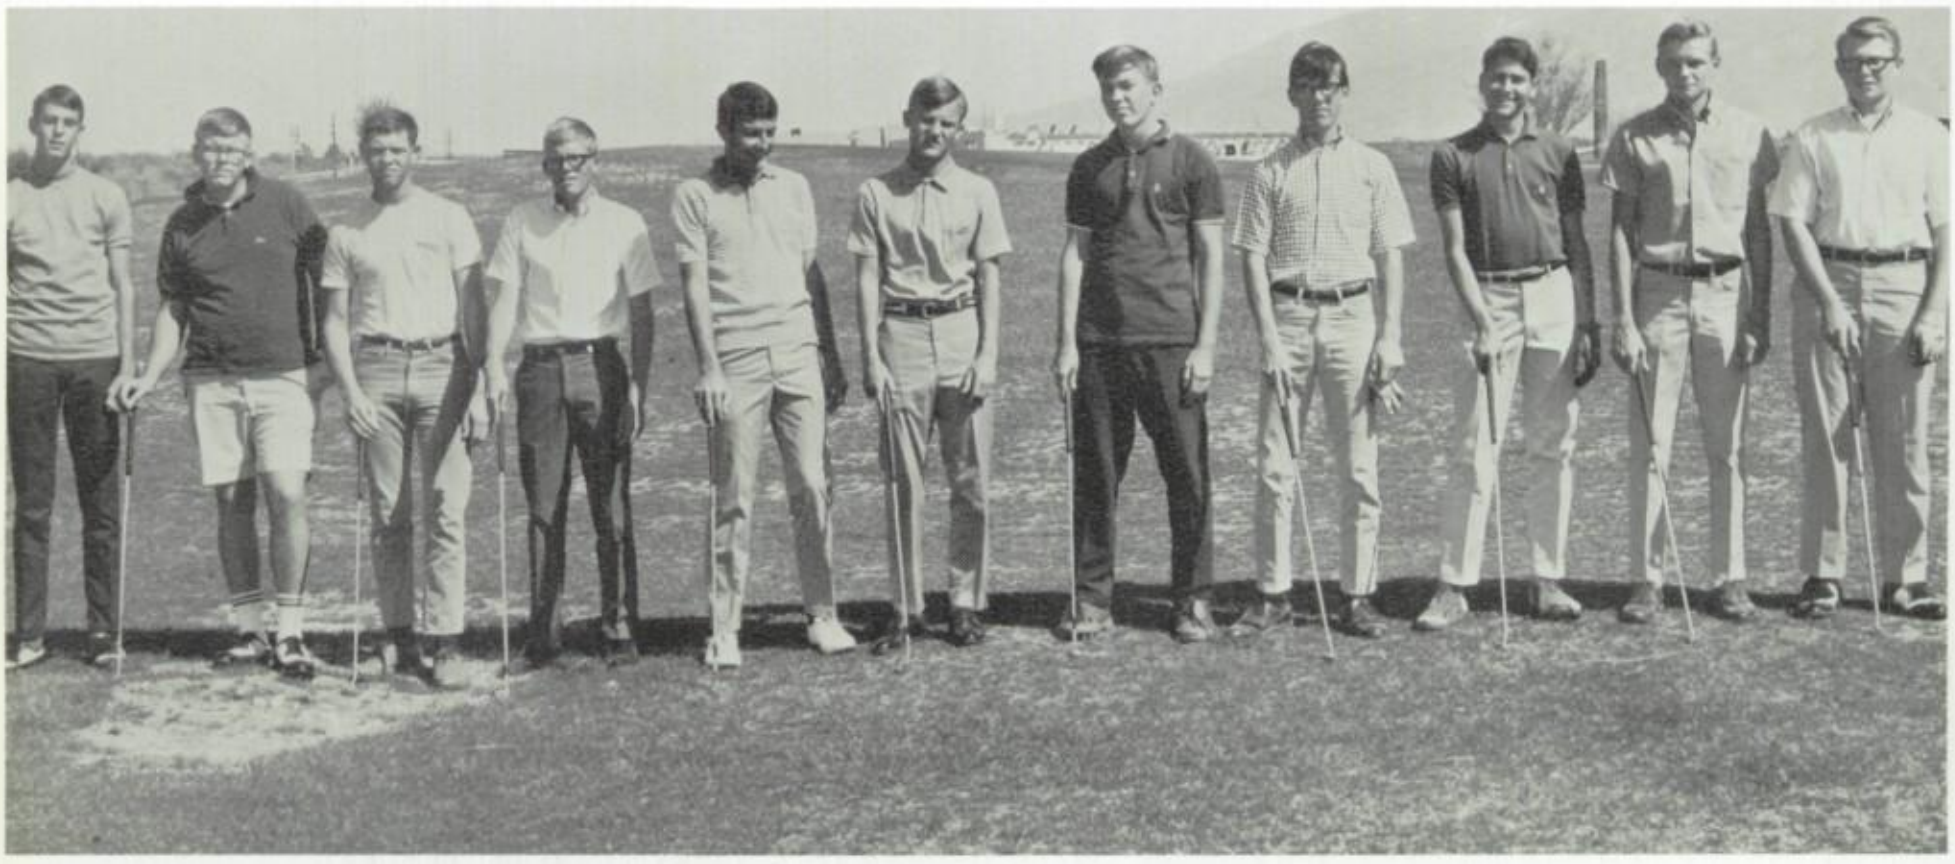
Gary Phillips performed a Swedish fall, part of a free exercise routine, in a gymnastics tournament. Gary was one of the outstanding freshman gymnasts.





Freshman gymnast Ken Perry perfected his shoulder stand on the parallel bars. He worked daily on difficult routines under the direction of Coach Harcus.

Titan Golfers Planned to Equal Previous



VARSITY GOLF TEAM: Fritz Rademacher, Robert Shallenberger, Steve Bishop, Tom Quebedeaux, Ricky Riddle, John Shanley, Lee Alley, Dave Hill, Armen Dirtadian, Steve Brady, Craig Sebree.

Seniors Bob Shallenberger and Tom Quebedeaux, and juniors John Shanley and Rick Riddle were back from last year's championship squad. Teams defeated by the Titans were Flowing Wells, Rincon, Douglas, Amphi, Salpointe, and Catalina. Holding the top three places were Shallenberger, Shanley and Quebedeaux. The remaining positions were filled by Riddle, Fritz Rademacher and Steve Brady.

During a golf match, junior Rick Riddle chipped the ball in an attempt to reach the last hole. Titans opened their season with a victory over Rincon.

Senior golf team member Bob Shallenberger putted on the Rolling Hills green during a match against Amphitheater. This match was held on February 23.

Development of PE Talents Stressed In All

As a member of Golf Club, freshman Judy Mendenhall worked to improve her drive. This was the first year the PE department sponsored the organization.

Girls' archery was offered in physical education classes during the school year. Students learned the proper stance and position for target shooting.

In field hockey teamwork was necessary when trying to gain possession of the ball. Participation was required for all sophomore girls.

Speedaway was a fast moving game requiring quick thinking and agility. Girls competed against each other after learning the rules and techniques in PE.

Girls', Boys' Athletics

A physical conditioning course, called the grind, was run by the boys' PE classes. Students ran across the bleachers as a part of an exhausting route.

Boys did sit-ups as part of a requirement for the hour they spent in freshman PE class. The exercise demanded endurance and helped to tone up muscles.

Girls' Physical Education offered all students the opportunity to develop their athletic talents. Highly skilled girls, as members of various teams, competed against other Tucson high schools. Girls participating in golf and archery were also in several contests. At the end of the year the top players went to Tempe for state competition.

Tournaments in the boys' Physical Education Department were usually an outgrowth of PE activities. Juniors participated in a volleyball tournament and the sophomores in a tennis tournament. The freshmen were offered speedball and the seniors field hockey. One period a day was given to students wishing to take modified PE.

Weightlifting and other body building exercises were required courses for boys who participated in the programs of the physical education department. This type of instruction was given for a six-weeks period during the year. Mr. Weimer was one of the teachers in charge of this particular activity.

Senior Class Planned an Active Final Year

Seniors constructed the Titan Shield, a special senior bulletin board, at the start of the school year. They also provided a gold and blue table cloth for the senior table.

For the Homecoming festivities the senior class entered a float in the parade. Later in the year they sold senior sweat shirts emblazoned with a foot and the motto "Pedem Optimum Primo" —best foot forward.

During Spirit Week, the senior class received the prize for the best decorated hall and were active in selling lapel cards and gold and blue flowers.

Over the year the class kept a record of events pertaining to seniors and compiled these into a scrapbook. This book was donated to the school to be continued in later years. They also completed a design for a PV coat of arms.

The 1967 senior year ended with the Senior Show, presentation of the senior gift and the graduation ceremony. Senior advisors Mrs. Mastrorillo and Mr. Barr assisted the class in all of the projects they planned.

Senior class advisors Mrs. Mastrorillo and Mr. Barr assisted the seniors with all projects that were planned. They provided suggestions, criticisms and helpful materials when they were needed.

Junior Float Wins Homecoming Competition

The Class of '68 proved that school spirit and enthusiasm were important. They began the year by decorating a podium in the auditorium with a miniature mosaic Titan. Another of their major contributions was the installation of an outside pay telephone for use of all students.

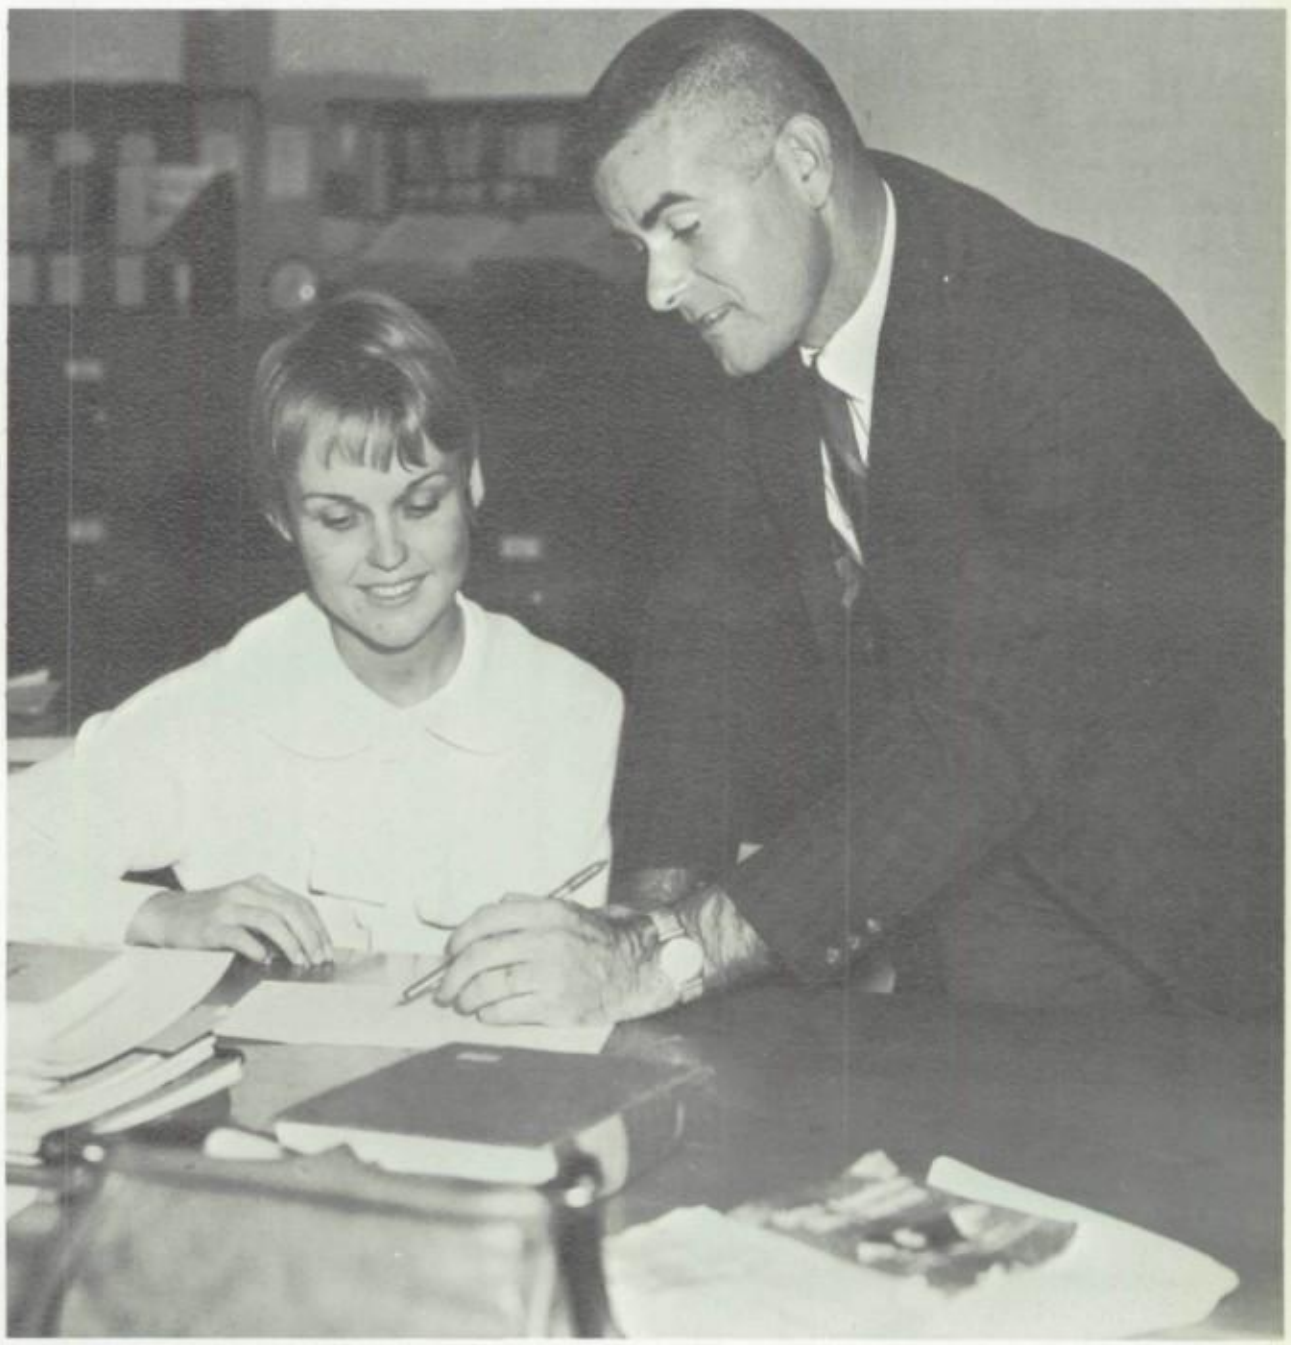
Members of the class constructed their float which was awarded first place in the Homecoming competition. After the Palo Verde-Salpointe game, the Class of '68 sponsored the Homecoming mixer in the girls' gym.

During Spirit Week, juniors worked to promote and achieve school spirit. Gold and blue suckers were sold, pennies were collected and a portion of the cafeteria boasted of junior spirit.

On April 22, after weeks of hard preparation, the Junior-Senior Prom was held. Juniors spent many hours decorating the cafeteria for this important event.

Members of the class helped on many school projects, such as the Milk Fund Drive and raising money for an AFS foreign student. The Class also sponsored a movie.

Junior class President Steve Burns worked to promote spirit among juniors. Members of the class were kept informed of the proceedings at class meetings by Secretary-Treasurer Karen Shields.



Junior class advisors Mrs. Emily Maxwell and Mr. Richard Brown discussed future plans of the class.

Juniors designed new projects for the campus.

Sophomores Sponsored Spirit Week Dance

Sophomore advisors, Miss McMillan and Mr. Essig assisted the advisory board in plans for projects. Their advice was often requested by the board.

During the year the Sophomore Class participated in numerous school activities and sponsored many important events.

The Class of '69 constructed a float for halftime competition at the Homecoming game against Salpointe. "PV Stands Tall," illustrated in gold and blue block letters, provided the theme for their creation.

Sophomores showed their enthusiasm when they took part in the Palo Verde milk fund drive; which received third place in the city.

The last event of Spirit Week was the dance sponsored by the Sophomore Class following the Salpointe basketball game on January 20.

At the beginning of the year they supported junior varsity and varsity athletics by hanging posters listing the time and place of games.

Frequent advisory board meetings were called by class President Joe Kalt to discuss the organization and plans for future projects. Vice-President Mike Ancharski and Councilmen Mindi Ligner and Sherman Miller assisted in formulating various policies for the year. Members of the Sophomore Class were kept informed by minutes passed out by Secretary Errol Berk. Mr. James Essig and Miss Jamie McMillan served as Sophomore Class advisors.

Freshman's "Thumb" Won Symbol Award

Freshman class advisors Mrs. Warren and Mr. Kush discussed future projects. They worked with the officers and helped them with numerous activities.

Incoming freshmen faced new challenges when they entered high school. They were aided by the student handbook and freshman orientation.

Class elections was the first activity freshmen participated in. The field was narrowed down by primaries held in October. Two candidates running for each position spoke to the freshmen at assemblies on November 1. Final elections were held on November 2. Officers elected were Bill Ramos, president; Pattie Blecha, vice-president; Kristy Kalt, secretary-treasurer; and Vicki Vukovich and David Brahms, councilmen.

A bake sale held at El Con was the freshmen class's first project. Proceeds were used for Spirit Week activities. Other projects included the Red Cross and canned food drive.

The class of '70 enthusiastically entered the competition during Spirit Week. They were responsible for decorating the English hall with streamers and posters. A thumb was selected to be the class symbol. A gold thumb placed on a blue background was displayed in the cafeteria. It took first place in the symbol competition and represented the theme "Thumbs Up."

Personnel, Bookstore Extended Services

After morning breaks, janitor Ruben Felix worked at cleaning the cafeteria for afternoon students. He was often on duty following evening activities to prepare the building for the next school day.

Under the direction of Mr. Foss, the bookstore handled student body funds and received all equipment and supplies for the school. Students were able to buy what they needed before and after school and during breaks. Bookstore hours were 6:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Anyone who wished to mail a letter or buy a five-cent postage stamp could do so at the bookstore. The mail was picked up at 1:00 p.m. every day for the convenience of students. Tickets to various athletic events and Olympian sales were also taken care of here.

Attempting to keep the campus clean and safe was the job of 19 custodians and two engineers. Mr. George Wagner, head custodian, made sure buildings and equipment were kept in good order. Janitors cleaned the cafeteria between breaks and the gym, auditorium and class rooms in the evening.

As night watchman, Mr. Darrel Banning checked buildings and doors after school hours. He also locked the gates and watched the parking lot.

Twenty-two women were kept busy in the cafeteria during the six daily breaks.

Mr. Banning, night watchman, made a final security check following an evening club meeting at school.

Cafeteria women worked hard during lunch breaks. Serving the students and faculty was included in their duties. For the convenience of students, the women worked in the snack bar between sessions.

Directing traffic outside the parking lot between sessions and after school was one of his duties.
